Winner Myers, with Blackie

A Lonely Life Despite Win . . .

Times News Services

VANCOUVER — What does a man do when he hears he has won $200,000 in the Olympic Lottery?

If he is widower Frank Myers, 66, of Surrey, he simply goes to his fridge and opens a bottle of beer. Nothing more.

Myers said he hasn't had any time to think about what he'll do with his winnings, but that "it looks like that at the age of 66 now, I'm going to have to become a brand new swinger . . . develop a new set of bad habits, I guess."

The win came 2½ years too late.

"That was when my wife died and she really loved beautiful things," he said. "I would have given an arm and a leg to have won this prize for her."

Myers was born in Winnipeg but has lived in B.C. since 1940. He was a machinist in the aircraft industry and later a carpenter in heavy construction.

"The only real pleasure I now get out of life is taking my dog Blackie for a long country walk and that doesn't cost any money," said Myers.

In the seventh draw, the holders of ticket number

'GENERAL STRIKE' DEMANDED

3,000 Jeer ICBC Rates

Times News Services

More than 3,000 jeering people, shouting "Sieg Heil" and "general strike," staged a two-hour protest rally Sunday in Surrey and vowed they would not pay enormous Autoplan premium increases.

More protest rallies, including a possible one Sunday in Vancouver's 16,000-seat Pacific Coliseum, are expected.

But Pat McGeer, the minister in charge of the government-run Insurance Corp. of British Columbia, stood his ground Sunday by saying the Social Credit cabinet will not reconsider the new rates which will raise payments by as much as 200 per cent for B.C. motorists.

McGeer said that motorists should realize that while the rates have been increased considerably, the installment payment plan (which charges 13 per cent interest) means only one-quarter of the premium is due Feb. 29, "and that's less than what people had to pay last year.

"ICBC has been divorced from reality and we have to get back to that reality," McGeer said. "The public just has to realize this.

"The NDP pigeons have finally come home to roost," he added, referring to the lower rates that were in effect when the previous New Democratic Party government introduced ICBC two years ago.

Premier Bennett said today he was "also surprised" by the high premiums but the decision is final and the government will not reconsider.

"I don't blame people for being upset at the cost of auto insurance," he said, adding that last year there was "a politically suppressed rate" established by the NDP.

But he stressed that people are not paying for past losses in this year's rates — only the costs of keeping ICBC at a break-even point.

Not only has the government decided to pay off the $181 million deficit left by ICBC's first two years of operation, said Bennett, but that money will not be needed right away and ICBC can invest it "and earn millions of dollars."

"This will help them to have lower premiums because the interest from this money will help to cut the cost of this year's insurance," he said.

But meanwhile the $181 million is coming out of an "already depleted treasury . . . at a time that this province is headed for the first major deficit and borrowing in years," said Bennett.

The government cannot reconsider premium increases because there is simply no money available, he said, to subsidize the cost.

"There's no sense in fooling ourselves any longer. There's

Socred Auditor Changed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ian Adam, a Social Credit party official, has been replaced as the Clarkson Gordon and Co. partner heading a review of British Columbia government finances.

Bonar Lund, a senior official here of the national accounting firm, said Sunday that Donald Scott, a senior partner of Clarkson Gordon in Toronto, will head the Victoria audit.

Controversy followed the appointment of Adam because he is fourth vice-president of the Vancouver-Point Grey Social Credit constituency association. Attorney-General Garde Gardom and Education Minister Pat McGeer represent the riding.

Lund said the move is no reflection on the integrity or effieiency of Adam who also has done personal financial work for the premier.

Premier Bennett said he has never spoken to Lund and as far as he is concerned the report will still be coming from Clarkson Gordon.

Asked if he was glad Adam had been removed from the task Bennett said, because of the doubts raised, it is important the report "have credibility in the public mind."

Fingers Crossed

CAMBODIAN REFUGEES MASSACRED

BANGKOK (AP) — Officials say Cambodian soldiers today killed more than 200 villagers who tried to flee to Thailand. Their information came from a survivor, 28-year-old Tue Piey, who escaped across the border with 11 companions, they added.

The officials said Cambodians have been escaping to Thailand at a rate of about seven to 10 a day.

Thai officials said similar incidents of fleeing refugees being killed have been reported by survivors in the last nine months.

Beirut Truce Holding

BEIRUT (CP) — Thousands of Lebanese celebrated the return of peace to Beirut today under the watchful eyes of Palestinian patrols, but occasional gunfire was heard along the dividing line between the city's Christian and Moslem sectors.

The state radio said both sides were generally observing the Syrian-sponsored ceasefire, which went into effect four days ago.

Truckloads of Palestine Liberation Army troops rode through the streets of Moslem-controlled western Beirut Sunday looking for looters.

Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat has warned that gunmen in the streets will be shot without warning.

The loudspeakers also announced that Arafat's guerrillas would protect Christian villages in Moslem regions.

Gunmen moved out their barricades in city and suburban areas, but militia forces were still in control of the streets around the devastated seafront hotel area.

The architect of the current truce, Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, met with Christian militia leaders Sunday and won their approval of a 48-hour timetable for demilitarizing the capital and countryside.

SPORTS

Kansas City Scouts, who lost their 12th straight National Hockey League game Sunday, are expected to get a new coach today. Rumors suggest it will be Eddie Bush, a veteran coach in Ontario junior hockey ranks. Page 14.

Ben Crenshaw, who made a brilliant debut by winning his first professional golf event almost three years ago, bounced back into the limelight Sunday by taking the Bing Crosby tournament as Jack Nicklaus floundered like a duffer in the final round. Page 14.

Victoria Cougars continue to have barrels of trouble in Western Hockey League clashes with Kamloops Chiefs. After drubbing Calgary on home ice Saturday, the Cougars moved to Kamloops Sunday and were thumped 7-3. Page 14.

Bob Gallaugher of Victoria and Craig MacRae of Nanaimo have captured the Vancouver Island berths in the Pacific Coast Curling Association playoffs in Victoria next month. Representing the Vancouver zone will be Bernie Sparkes and Vic Wood. Page 15.

University of Victoria Vikettes have stretched their victory streak to 12 games in the women's basketball league of the Canada West Universities Athletic Association by sweeping a two-game series against Lethbridge. Not so fortunate are the UVic Vikings, who have suffered five straight defeats in the men's league. Page 34.

George Foreman has bounced back into the running for another shot at the world heavyweight boxing crown. Foreman became the first man to knock out Ron Lyle by stopping Lyle in the fifth round at Las Vegas. Page 35.

Soviets Continue Southward Push

Times News Services

Soviet-backed forces are continuing their southward push in Angola with pressure increasing on the town of Novo Redondo, a spokesman for the pro-Western National Union for the Total Independence of Angola said Sunday.

All civilians have been cleared from the town and UNITA forces are attempting a defence from surrounding areas. Fall of the town would open the way for an all-out attack on Lobito, Angola's largest port.

Meanwhile, westerners arriving in Zambia from Angola said today that leaders of UNITA told them that South African forces have completed their withdrawal.

The travellers said UNITA leader Jonas Savimbi told them that the last South African troops were flown south Friday, two days after their government ordered them to withdraw.

The entry of an estimated 2,000 South African troops into the war several months ago bolstered UNITA's fight against the MPLA and Cuban soldiers fighting alongside it.

But the South African intervention resulted in support for the MPLA by a number of African governments, and the Cuban contingent was increased to an estimated 10,000 troops.

A dispatch in the Rand Daily Mail today claimed that Pretoria had demanded recognition by 22 African nations as the price for continuing to support the pro-western Angolan faction.

"This was too high a price," the Mail quoted Jorge Sangumba a UNITA spokesman as saying.

In a related development, a British correspondent reported from the MPLA capital today that the Soviet-backed faction is making "discreet" overtures to the United States.

Nicholas Ashford of The Times of London reported from Luanda that the MPLA's desire to improve relations with the U.S. was shown by the treatment given Mark Moran, an adviser to Senator John Tunney, who met almost every MPLA civil and military leader except President Agostinho Neto during a visit last week to Luanda.

Ashford said Moran told him he got "the distinct impression that the MPLA would like to have better relations with the U.S.—and the MPLA is not demanding U.S. recognition as a price."

OTTAWA (CP)— A spokesman for the federal treasury board has confirmed that an advance of $100,000 has been given to Coast Ferries Ltd. so it can resume logging camp service to communities on the lower British Columbia coast.

Aid Demanded

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Liberal party called upon federal Liberal MPs Sunday to support Premier Robert Bourassa in his efforts to obtain federal aid in financing the Montreal Olympics.

Games Man Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Simon St. Pierre, executive vice-president of the organizing committee for the 1976 Summer Olympic Games, died in hospital early today, two weeks after he suffered head injuries in a fall from a horse.

Fourth BCR Union Agrees to Prober

Canadian Press

A fourth union representing employees of British Columbia Rail has agreed to submit its case before the industrial inquiry commissioner appointed by the provincial government.

Transportation-communication division of the Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks said Sunday it would put its case before the commissioner, Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Mr. Justice Munroe was appointed Friday by Labor Minister Allan Williams.

Teamsters' local 31 — about 275 truck drivers, warehousemen and office employees — walked out Wednesday, closing down the operation of the crown corporation. It is unlikely they will end the strike until all five unions agree to meet with the commissioner.

The International Union of Operating Engineers and the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees had earlier joined the teamsters in agreeing to a commissioner.

The fifth union — the United Transportation Union — still has reservations about taking its case to Mr. Justice Munroe, a union spokesman said on the weekend.

Mexicans Coming

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and Mexican President Luis Echeverria announced Sunday, after two days of talks, that a group of Mexican government ministers will visit Canada within a few days to study the possibility of using a Candu reactor in Mexican nuclear development.

OVERHAUL EYED FOR AUTO PACT

WASHINGTON (FP) — A major new study critical of the Canada-U.S. auto trade agreement is expected to lead to renewed appeals in Congress for an overhaul of the 11-year-old treaty.

The auto pact is not a "free trade agreement" and its economic benefits have been lopsided in Canada's favor, says a still-unpublished report of the U.S. International Trade Commission.

The report, which is expected to be released publically this Wednesday after it is circulated to members of the Senate Finance committee, say the pact "has had the effect of preserving the protection" the Canadian motor-vehilce industry enjoyed before the agreement was signed.

The ITC study also states "the conclusion is inevitable that there would have been a greater increase in United States automotive production and employment," during the past decade if it were not for imports from Canada.

Worker Slain by Robber

VANCOUVER (CP) — As Richard Wilander was forced to open the safe at a Burnaby building supply company Sunday a gunman fired a single shot in the back of his co-employee, killing him.

Police said the victim, whose name was not released, had done nothing to provoke the robber who escaped with an undetermined amount of money from Lumberland Building Supplies, 5650 Lougheed.

Burnaby Staff-Sgt. Paul Starek said the robber, aged between 20 and 26, accosted the two employees as they were leaving the store for the day.

They were ordered into the back of the store to open the safe.

Wilander later was forced to lie down on the floor and tied with tape the robber had brought with him.

Starek said that after the safe was opened the victim, about 30, lay on the floor and the bandit pumped a single shot into his back from about seven feet.

Police said it took Wilander several minutes to free himself and call for help. By that time, the other man had died.

Police said they don't know if there is any connection between Sunday's murder and a holdup on Sunday, Nov. 17, at the same store, when a gunman collected several thousand dollars in cash, cheques and lottery tickets.

Starek said police don't know whether the robber had an accomplice or the model of his getaway car.

Police asked persons who were in the store about the time of the 5:40 p.m. shooting to contact them at 294-7649.

Wilander was in seclusion late Sunday with other Lumberland employees, his parents said.

Comox Nuclear Warheads to Go

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

Nuclear warheads being stored at CFB Comox will be removed when the base's CF 101 Voodoo interceptor jets are replaced.

This was confirmed Saturday when General Daniel James Jr., chief of the North American Air Defence Command, visited the up-Island base.

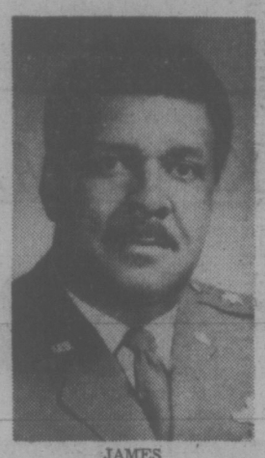
The United States' first black four-star general, visiting the base for the first time since he took over the NORAD command last year, said he had been assured by General Jacques Dextraze, Canada's chief of defence staff, that the nuclear warheads would be removed once the Voodoos are replaced.

(Speaking to the Conference of Defence Associations in Ottawa Jan. 16, Dextraze said the Voodoos could be replaced with "off-the-shelf" American planes such as the F14, F15 and F16 fighter aircraft that are conventionally armed.)

James said it was impossible for him to say when Canada will replace the aging Voodoos and remove the nuclear warheads that have been a cause of concern, triggering several protests, by Comox residents.

He saw no need to strengthen NORAD once the controversial Trident nuclear submarine base is in operation at Bangor, Wash. He said the submarines were a sufficient deterrent.

In demand in his own country because of his prowess as a public speaker, James fielded questions like a pro, managing to give the usual "motherhood" answers in a manner that appeared frank and unlabored.



JAMES
. . . no target date

"The strong relationship (between Canada and the U.S.) is more valuable than any weapon you can design," he replied when asked if Canada's aging weaponry made this country a poor relation in the NORAD alliance, which was renewed for another year at almost the same time as James' appointment.

He rejected a suggestion that the spending of huge amounts of money on defence in peace time was unpopular with the general public. He said such opinions were voiced by a small, vocal minority.

"There will always be the guys (who object to defence spending) who've never heard a shot fired in anger. We (the U.S.) realize we are not the most popular kid on the block. But it's not our job to be popular. Our job is to be strong," he said.

He predicted that disarmament talks by the world's big powers eventually would lead to the abandonment of nuclear weapons but could set no date on this development.

He said his country's armed forces had improved since the service became a completely voluntary one.

"When we went all-voluntary, people predicted it would be an all-black army, a poor folk's army, but we have a pretty good cross-section," James said, "Nobody's in the service that doesn't want to be there. We didn't move our standards . . . there's no beer in the barracks, no girls in the rooms. We haven't relaxed anything that affects the quality of the fighting man."

SARONGS MAKE IT RIGHT

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Seventeen shipwrecked sailors rescued by a Dutch ship told authorities this weekend that they owed their lives to their sarongs.

The Maldives Islands sailors said their cargo ship sprang a leak last week and sank within minutes, but they managed to crowd into a single liferaft with a broken radio set.

They drifted in the Indian Ocean for 11 hours, they said, and then spotted the scandinavian Dutch ship Wissekerk in the distance.

No Increase In Security —McCarthy

Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy said today the government will not step up security forces at the Legislature despite storming of cabinet quarters by demonstrators two weeks ago.

"I don't see anything different that we are going to do, other than what we have done in the past," she said.

The minister asked for a security report after about 75 demonstrators, gathered at the Legislature to demand jobs from the new government, bypassed the single security official who guards the entrance to cabinet quarters and broke into a cabinet meeting.

McCarthy said she didn't think anybody was at fault in the incident and that it was simply an unusual circumstance where a second entrance to the cabinet area was under construction.

"It was just a question that the door was open and under ordinary circumstances, without construction, it wouldn't be that way," she said.

The minister said in the past under the former Social Credit government there was never a guard outside the cabinet room but when she became provincial secretary the practice had been started and it will now be continued.

McCarthy said she has no plans to discuss the issue with cabinet and she personally had made the decision not to increase security.

3,000 at Rally Jeer Autoplan Rate Hikes

no such thing as something for nothing — people change governments because of that."

ICBC costs will only be brought down by reducing claims on the corporation's overhead, said the premier.

"We are going to do something about administration and the drivers of B.C., myself included, can do something about the rates by having less claims."

Asked if he was surprised about the high premium rates announced Friday, the premier said he was.

He said he doubted the federal anti-inflation board would rule against the increases because ICBC is a Crown corporation and the rates relate to the cost of breaking even rather than to making a profit.

The Surrey rally gave unanimous consent to a resolution urging people not to pay the increased rates — averaging between 100 and 200 per cent — and to abandon their cars on city streets when the rate increases take effect at midnight, Feb. 29, the end of the premium year.

Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm, the only government member at the rally, was jeered and booed when he spoke in defence of the increases and at one point was shoved by a woman who screamed for him to "go home, go home."

Vander Zalm, the area's MLA and former mayor, stayed at the meeting for about 1½ hours until he left after being ruled out of order while attempting to address the rally.

Speakers at the protest rally encouraged the anti-increase movement and before the crowd broke up it also adopted a resultion calling for a boycott of all car dealerships beginning today.

Jim Black, chairman of the citizen's committee which sponsored the rally, said he would contact the B.C. Federation of Labor today and ask it to have an emergency convention to discuss the increases.

Frank Oberle, the Conservative MP for Prince George-Peace River, said he is convinced the federal Anti-Inflation Board has the right to force the provincial government to roll back increases in car insurance rates.

In a telephone interview from Ottawa, Oberle said he is calling a meeting today in Ottawa of the 13 conservative MPs from B.C. to discuss the increases.

In Victoria, lawyer Jim Carfra said increased autoplan rates could force the government into taking responsibility for personal injuries suffered in car accident.

Carfra said there is a danger that people anxious to reduce insurance costs as much as possible will opt for the minimum insurance instead of getting extra coverage.

He said the $50,000 minimum compulsory insurance for third-person liability announced Friday by ICBC is insufficient because court awards for severe injuries are going as high as $1 million.

Safest Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal safety officials say America's airlines, apparently jarred by 1974's tragically high crash toll, reemphasized safety in 1975 and made it their safest year on record with only 42 accidents. For the fifth straight year, charter airlines had no fatal accidents.

Lucky Tickets

2599369 in Series A, B and C each won $1 million.

The holders of three tickets with the number 1735704 are to receive $500,000 each and thousands of Canadians won lesser amounts in the draw.

The numbers, all unofficial until ruled on by lottery headquarters in Montreal, were selected by computer from among 7.5 million tickets that sold for $10 each.

Altogether, 90,000 of the tickets are worth a total of $28.5 million to their owners. The draw was also expected to net about $30 million for the 1976 games.

Prices of $50,000 each were won by the holders of tickets numbered 3091801, 1661770, 2755364 and 2018904.

The next draw will be May 16 when six $1 million prizes will be selected by the computer.

CLIMB ANY MOUNTAIN, AT A PRICE

Nepal's foreign ministry has amended mountaineering regulations which now require any expedition attempting to climb Everest from this Himalayan monarchy to pay a royalty of $1,200.

The first expedition to be affected by the hiked prices is likely to be a joint British-Nepalese army team which will attempt to scale Everest this spring.

Another storm will approach B.C. this afternoon and pass inland tonight followed by another system from the Pacific on Tuesday. VOLCANO'S ASH ON ANCHORAGE

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A gritty, thin layer of ash topped the snow-covered streets of Anchorage today after Mt. St. Augustine, an island volcano 180 miles to the southwest, erupted three times over weekend.

The U.S. Geological Survey said attempts to view the volcano were foiled by bad weather. A boat trip planned today by scientists to the uninhabited island was cancelled because of the weather.

A pilot for Cook Inlet Air Service said it appeared that a portion of the north part of the 4,000-foot-high cone had been blown away Saturday by one of the blasts. The Geological Survey said it could not conform the pilot's observation.

Hot mud flows were reported oozing down the south side of the mountain.

The first eruption Friday morning sent a plume of smoke and ash eight miles high. The volcano erupted again Friday afternoon. The third eruption came Saturday morning, but detailed observation was difficult because of cloud layers.

The eruptions sent ash floating hundreds of miles. It was the first time such grit covered the streets of Anchorage since Mt. Spur in the Alaska Range erupted in the 1950s.

As a precaution, residents of lower Kenai Peninsula, about 125 miles northeast of the Cook Inlet island, have been warned to move to higher ground immediately if they hear a tremendous explosion or feel a moderate earthquake.

Murder Triangle Deaths Continue

BELFAST (UPI) — A 20-year-old man was killed by five blasts from a shotgun Sunday in northern Ireland's "murder triangle," maintaining province's grim pace of more than a killing a day so far in 1976.

The latest victim was shot at close range near Portadown in County Armagh, where five Roman Catholics were killed in one incident and 10 Protestants murdered in retaliation earlier this month.

On the other side of the same county, a bus driver was killed Saturday when an army machine-gun left loaded and cocked after an earlier battle accidentally went off.

The deaths were the 36th and 37th in northern Ireland in the 25 days so far this year — three killings every two days. Seventeen have been killed in County Armagh's so-called "murder triangle" to which Britain dispatched extra troops in mid-month.

Portadown is at the apex of the wild, sparsely populated area authorities refer to as the "murder triangle." Middletown is at the base. From Middletown the base runs to Newry along the mountainous border with the Irish Republic, crossed by countless lanes and unmarked roads which make infiltration into the north easy.

A bomb planted in a car devastated the centre of Ennis Killen, 75 miles south west of Belfast, after a warning which allowed the area to be evacuated.

Police said the bomb exploded outside an income tax office in Ann Street, wrecking several shops. There were no casualties.

SEWAGE FLOWS INTO BASEMENT

The request is a simple one.

G. V. Laurenson, 507 Head, has written Esquimalt Council asking that measures be taken to prevent discharge of municipal sewers into the basement of his house.

The matter will be discussed at Esquimalt council's public works committee meeting tonight, but engineer Mac Campbell advised today that its a Capital Regional District discharge.

Culprit, he said, is a northwest trunk sewer running from Saanich and Victoria through Esquimalt to Macauley Point for discharge.

During periods of high rainfall, stormwater seeps into the sanitary sewer line and backs up into Laurenson's basement.

The regional district has already removed stop logs in one of the nearby manholes, which will help, said Campbell and further steps will be discussed at the meeting tonight.

'Irresponsible Record'

Greater Victoria school board chairman Bill Ross has accused former trustee Phil Perry of "putting his record of irresponsibility in the matter of planning squarely before the public."

Ross' comments follow Perry's plea to the board to reconsider closure of the three elementary schools — Lampson, Bank and South Park — which the board, by a vote of 5 to 4, decided to close two weeks ago.

"It saddens me somewhat to see him present his views at this time when he had ample opportunities while being a trustee on the board," said Ross.

Perry last week sent a three-page letter to all nine trustees asking them to take another look at closing the schools.

The former trustee, who did not seek re-election to the board last year, initiated a resolution last June for district-wide study of consolidating facilities.

"After presenting his motion in June and rejecting my counsel to have his motion referred to committee for further study, Phil failed to make further comment," said Ross.

"In over six months he failed to make his views known on the entire issue while he sat as a school trustee. He admits in this regard to a grave error. I agree with him completely," said Ross.

Ross indicated the school closure matter would not be re-opened.

"Buy land... they're not making any more of it."

Have you ever known anyone who regretted owning real estate? Enroll in the Canadian Property Managers Association 20-lesson home study course: "How To Make Money In Real Estate" and start building your fortune today.

The late Will Rogers once said, "Buy land . . . they're not making any more of it." It was true then and it's even truer now! Canada is one of the fastest growing countries in the world. Our population is growing, businesses are growing, our gross national product is growing . . . Canada is still "a land of opportunity". An investment in Canadian land and income-producing properties is probably still one of your surest paths to financial success. After all, Canada's burgeoning growth is built on land and ". . . they're not making any more of it". As a matter of fact, some Provincial Governments are so conscious of the value of Canadian real estate they've restricted who can own it!

You may already have made substantial profits from real estate without consciously trying to

If you are one of the lucky people who bought your present home or property over five years ago, you know how it has dramatically appreciated in value, even in that short period of time. And it is continuing to increase in value while you pay for it with dollars having lower purchasing power due to inflation. A nice position to be in. Think how great the profits could be if you actually applied proven skills and techniques to exploit the big profit opportunities open to you in real estate.

If you are renting your living accommodation then you also know what has happened to you. Increasing rents . . . no equity . . . and perhaps most important of all, you don't have the satisfaction of being able to say; "I own all this".

Isn't it about time you cashed in on the exiting opportunities to make money in real estate?

Enroll today in The Canadian Property Managers Association 20-lesson home study course in property management and property law. The course, "How to Make Money in Real Estate", has been prepared by Canadian professionals . . . professionals in buying and selling real estate . . . professionals in financing and mortgages . . . professionals in managing properties for profit . . . professionals in tax laws, property laws, accounting, etc.—all designed to teach you step-by-step exactly how to build big profits in Canadian real estate and income-producing properties.

This course is for anyone interested in making real profits in real estate . . . those who currently own property . . . those wishing to expand their existing investment portfolio . . . first time investors looking for a safe, sure way to build income and profits . . . those with substantial capital to invest and, like most of us, those on a limited budget.

Your age, occupation, income and educational background don't matter either. The course is written so that it is easy to understand, follows a logical step-by-step sequence and gives you many practical examples to follow and learn by.

Supplement your current income and provide for a financially secure future and retirement by enrolling today in the C.P.M.A. course "How to Make Money in Real Estate".

What is the Canadian Property Managers Association?

The C.P.M.A. is made up of a large group of Canadians interested in making profits in real estate. Since the Association was organized 12 years ago thousands of Canadians have benefited from the Association's educational programs.

The Association also publishes its own periodical in which real estate experts and members exchange views concerning their problems and opportunities.

By enrolling in the course you will automatically become a fully paid up member of the Canadian Property Managers Association and entitled to all privileges of membership, including:

- a full year's subscription to the Association's periodical "Property". This informative publication will keep you up to date on real estate developments across the country.
- free consulting services on your real estate problems
- the opportunity to purchase many goods and services at specially reduced rates only available to members of the C.P.M.A.
- many other benefits including a certificate and wallet card to identify you as a member of the Association.

Most Canadian Fortunes Have Been Built on Real Estate

Since 1963, real estate values have increased by over 185%. In just the last two years they've gone up a whopping 27%! At the same time the barometer of the securities market, the Dow Jones Average, has plunged by over 19%! Real estate values are one of the few investments which have kept pace with double-digit inflation and many real estate investors have realized average annual returns of over 50%. No wonder so many Canadians, just like you, are building their fortune on real estate investments. It doesn't take a lot of money to get started . . . but it does take some very practical and specialized knowledge. The C.P.M.A. home study course "How to Make Money in Real Estate" will give you that knowledge . . . quickly and inexpensively so that you can start building your fortune this safe, sure way.

GORDON BELL, Managing Editor | STUART UNDERHILL, Publisher | GEORGE OAKE, Editor

Very Poor Judgment

Clarkson Gordon is one of the oldest and most prestigious accounting firms in the country. It is to Canada what Price Waterhouse is to the United States. Both firms have an impeccable record of fine work. The choice of the Canadian firm to perform a review of the British Columbia government's finances cannot be questioned.

From such a respectable partnership of accountants, the people of B.C. can expect an accurate and impartial accounting of public revenue and expenditures. Clarkson Gordon will not allow its name on anything which is not.

However, despite the firm's acknowledged professional skills one may question seriously the judgment which went into the choice of the individual who is in charge of the financial review, and the judgment of the man who accepted him — presumably Premier Bill Bennett.

Because Clarkson Gordon partner Ian Adam is a member of Social Credit, in fact a constituency vice-president, and he helped to raise money for the party's election drive, no one suggests his abilities to check a balance sheet are impaired.

But in government, appearances are just as important as the realities. There must not only be an absence of conflict of interest, it must be seen by everyone that there is none. This is not the case in the controversy over Adam.

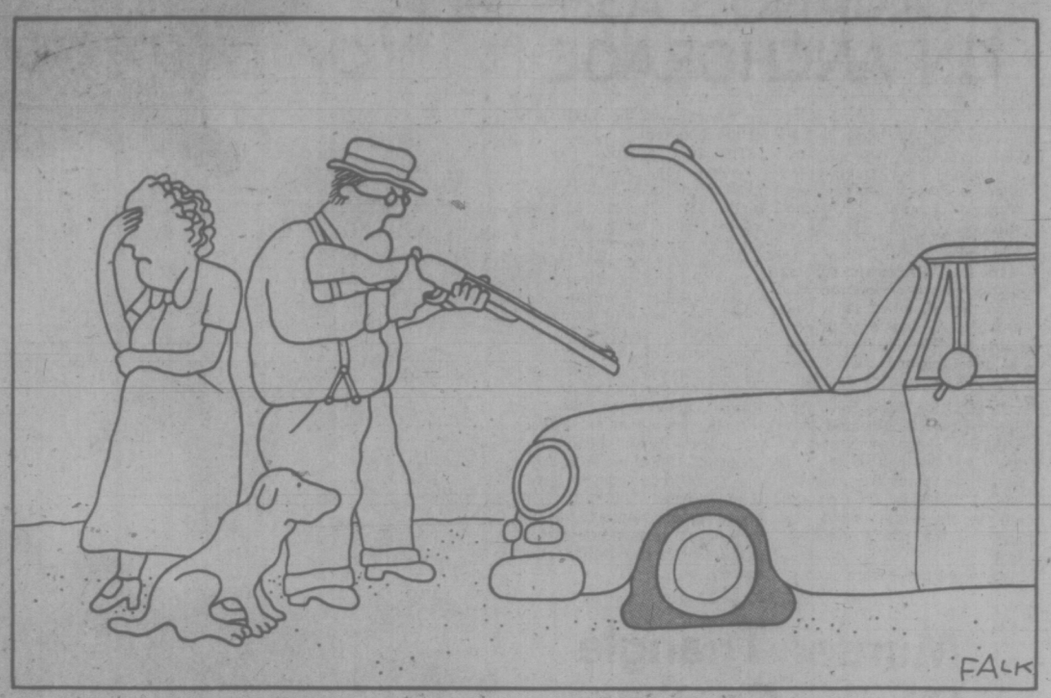
If neither Adam nor the premier can see the conflict involved, let alone the inherent political dangers, in giving responsibility for the audit to a party member who was a major fund-raiser for the Socreds last year, who has done work for the Bennett family businesses, then they have some amazing blind spots.

What was to be an independent assessment of B.C.'s finances is now under a cloud. One does not have to be a political opponent of the Socreds to see that the premier has handed the NDP a perfect handle to discredit whatever conclusions are reached by Clarkson Gordon. In the same way, the firm itself has been tainted with politics.

Adam should have disqualified himself immediately it was proposed that he head the team of accountants who are carrying out the financial review.

He was removed from the job on Sunday by head office, which cited "recent publicity." It's less than reassuring that if neither Adam nor the politicians can admit his unfitness for the task, at least his employers see the conflict. This is the sort of critical faculty one expects as a matter of course from politicians, especially the premier.

Bennett's lack of judgment, political savvy, plain horse sense — whatever you call it — as demonstrated by this episode is a severe liability. He may have a tremendous business sense, a talent for organization and administration, a well-deserved public popularity, but unless there is a strong measure of common sense, a sense of propriety about what is right, to go with them, no politician can long survive.



Press and Police

The disclosure that an RCMP officer posed as a reporter for The Canadian Press news agency to gather information about union activity in Hull, across the river from Ottawa, is disturbing. The regret expressed by the RCMP commissioner, and the explanation that the man was acting only on his own initiative, go only part way to providing reassurance.

Is it only an isolated case? Is the practice definitely not RCMP policy? We hope so, but there's evidence to the contrary that is worrisome. The working press has its own opinions. Here in Victoria, demonstrations by various groups at the legislature have attracted some odd-looking "reporters" and cameramen whom nobody knows.

Granted, the RCMP and local police must keep an eye out for potentially violent situations in which elected leaders may come to harm, or damage may be done to property.

But this can be done without posing as members of the press. Police may think it an ideal "cover" for asking all kinds of questions, but the damage it does to public confidence — in the police and in the press itself — is incalculable.

What Ottawa area labor union official will talk to a reporter from now on without asking himself whether the person in front of him with notebook and pencil is really a cop in disguise, and thus will tailor his comments accordingly? Really, it's an inexcusable lapse of judgment on the part of the RCMP officer in question and he should be removed to a position where he won't be able to exercise such initiative again.

FRANK RUTTER

Fiscal Vegetarians for Ford

WASHINGTON — When that unlikely revolutionary Gerald R. Ford cribbed from a real one, Thomas Paine, in his state of the union message, the biggest round of applause from all ideological sides of the U.S. congress came not for the rhetoric, but for the president's proposal to reduce estate taxes on family farms and businesses.

That applause for that proposal says something about the style and appeal of the accidental president who seeks the confirmation of an election victory this year.

Ford is comfortable in the setting of the family farm and small business, and farmers and small businessmen are probably comfortable with him.

And when Ford dwells on the bigness of the federal government, expressing his desire to put it on a strict diet, he can count on wide support among fiscal vegetarians.

Against Big Gov't

But what a contrast between Ford's 19th century economics and those of his neighbor in Canada. While Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau philosophizes about the failure of the free market system, Ford is calling for "greater individual freedom and self-reliance."

While Trudeau is warning about long-term and even tighter controls, Ford seeks to free business from government shackles and the public from welfare burdens.

Although Ford would reduce income taxes, he would also raise social service taxes but reduce the level of those services.

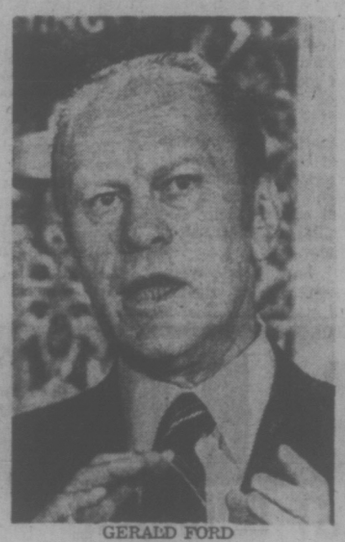
His belief is that the U.S. federal government can whip inflation, but not unemployment.

He may have something going with his pitch against big government, because most of his political opponents, both in his own party and the Democrats, are sensing a general public resentment of it, but he is taking a big risk in assuming that the public is more outraged about inflation than unemployment, certainly the public in the big cities.

In the attractive tradition of free speech and fair play, the Democrats got a chance to tell Americans how they could do better than Ford. The messenger chosen was Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine, whose performance in a similar role eight years ago catapulted him to national prominence.

This time, Muskie clearly outshone Ford in oratory and in rhetoric. He correctly grasped, and emphasized, the public disillusionment and lack of confidence in government and politicians.

Where, one wonders, is Trudeau? At this distance, there is no obvious answer. But at least Trudeau is trying to articulate problems that no one else has comfortably solved, whether his thoughts are right, wrong, or even clear. He has an advantage, however. This is not, for him, a mandatory election year.



GERALD FORD

. . . something new for '76?

American politicians do not have the luxury of time to philosophize as they rush forth to grapple with issues and voters in a process that will not let up until exhaustion on Nov. 2.

At the moment, it appears, none of the candidates has economic ideas any newer or fresher than those of Ford and Muskie. While Muskie isn't a candidate, he was designated party spokesman and is head of the budget apparatus in congress.

One can hope that appearances will prove deceiving, and that as the great campaign unfolds, fine minds will develop great plans.

In some respects, Ford, relying on the free market that Trudeau questions, but not tinkering very much with the economy, has been lucky. Inflation has subsided to a rate of six or seven per cent. But employment is eight per cent.

The catch, if his budget program were actually implemented, is whether leaner government will mean hungrier citizens.

It is noteworthy that the economy dominated both the state of the union speech and the Democrats' reply. Ford left out a great deal — most blatantly the poor and the black — and dealt only in passing with much more, including the fact that this is bicentennial year. His remarks on foreign policy were skimpy, even offhand. Muskie was not much more comprehensive.

Political Unreality

Ford inextricably linked the state of the union with the budget, on which virtually his entire report was pegged.

In fact, this budget and Ford's program are unreal. They bear little resemblance to what will happen.

The political reality is that while the president may propose, congress will dispose. Ford has set a tone, but the overwhelmingly Democratic congress will make the major decisions on dollars and cents and it has the votes to enforce them, overriding the president's veto if necessary.

This, during election year, is going to be a most volatile process. It will be fraught with the danger of the "quick fix" that looks good in November but has to be paid for a year or two later. But at the same time, impotence and confrontation risk the contempt of the voter.

ROB BULL

Communications Grow Worse

MONTREAL — The John Hutchinson case has become a kind of minor cause celebre in Quebec.

In a news sense it is not a "hard" story. In many ways it is a reflection of Quebec media in-group gossip with revverberations from the navel-gazing world of Quebec politics.

But when the province's daily press discovered recently that the Quebec Liberal party had asked Hutchinson to resign as head of its information committee last November, they also stumbled on an event that indicates some of the reasons why Premier Robert Bourassa is having serious problems.

Hutchinson, 42, and flawlessly bilingual, is one of the more adept public relations men, communications experts or propagandists in the province.

In the past he has worked for Bell Canada, Expo 67, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Power Corporation and is currently director of communciations and public affairs for Canada Steamship Lines.

A first generation Irish-Canadian, he grew up in the rough, working-class district of Hochelaga in Montreal's east end.

When he was a young man at the dawn of the quiet revolution, 15 years ago, he was a Liberal election worker in the poorer Montreal districts. It was a time and place where Liberal militants had to face the clubs and baseball bats of Union Nationale goon squads.

Drifted Away

"It was exciting then," he said in an interview. "It was fun. I have never been a political dogmatician. But at the time we were working for whoever was against Duplessis."

"The first Liberal convention after the 1960 provincial victory was a watershed. A lot of people who had been on the political outside for a long time turned up to haggle over the possible future wealth their party loyalty could bring them.

"But Jean Lesage told them there would be no more patronage and if anybody disagreed they could join the other party and beat them in the next election. That was the name of the game."

Hutchinson drifted away from active political work in the next few years as he became involved in his own career. But the end of 1974 he was beginning to think that perhaps it was time he reconsidered.

The problems that the provincial party and Premier Robert Bourassa faced were of a dimension which could constitute a unique professional challenge to a man of Hutchinson's background.

He was approached by some Liberal party members whose personal honesty and credibility he respected.

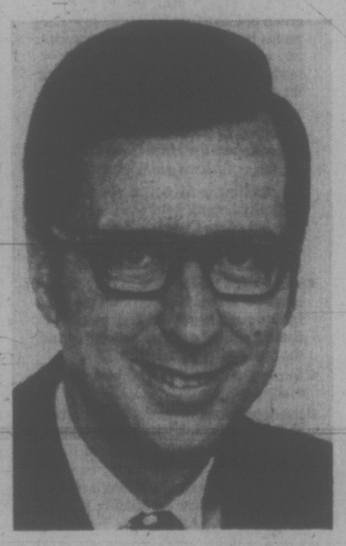
There was also a respect for the office of the premier of Quebec which was under serious attack, and "there was something to change and an ideal opportunity to participate in this change for the benefit of everybody."

As the negative atmosphere in Quebec increased, every businessman in the province would be hurt. As Quebec became more isolated from the rest of Canada, it would become isolated from the rest of the world as well.

In January, 1975, he became chairman of the Quebec Liberal party's information committee, just in time to witness a classic dog-fight between Bourassa and a member of the Quebec national assembly press gallery.

He analyzed the party's problems quickly in the way he would for a client paying for his services, the party of course was not, and came up with some fairly basic recommendations.

One difficulty was the distrust Liberals had of the media, despite the fact that the premier himself had stated in the face of an overwhelming Liberal majority in the provincial legislature that the press would have to become the effective opposition and that a series of nasty incidents being reported out of Montreal were events that both the press and the politicans had to deal with.



ROBERT BOURASSA

. . . problem of communications

Hutchinson suggested that a clear distinction should be made between the premier's personal press aide and a head of communications for the cabinet office. They were fairly technical recommendations.

At a meeting in January, a year ago, party leaders agreed to take these proposals to Bourassa. In the meantime, Hutchinson went to work establishing the party subcommittees to put a new information program into effect.

There was another meeting early in the year to discuss what theme party members should use to develop their ideas during 1975. Present were the chairmen of three other party committees besides Hutchinson, and the party president Claude Desrosiers.

There was talk about the quality of service in government, about Bill 22, the language law and about the size of government.

But Premier Bourassa dropped in on the meeting, told the Liberal leaders that the party theme would be the family in Quebec and for the rest of International Women's year, thousands of loyal party members were encouraged to grapple with such problems as how to encourage French-Canadian women to have more babies.

In the meantime, Hutchinson saw defeated a proposal to widen the party's membership base because local riding associations wanted the right to decide who could be a Liberal and who could not.

There were arguments about the division of party patronage and somebody even checked to make certain that the new head of the party's information committee was not a member of the Parti Quebecois.

"It was a whole different crowd from the Liberals I remembered," Hutchinson said.

No Quebec Jobs

He never did hear what the premier thought of his recommendations. But by March, he had done as much as he could without direction so he stopped working and waited.

For the next few months, some occasional items of Liberal propaganda came out under his name although they were not submitted for his approval.

"In my field," he said, "when a client doesn't want to listen to you, you say fine, smile, and go away. So that's what I did."

But it was November before the party president got around to asking for Hutchinson's resignation. It was readily given, but Quebec being what it is the media did not stumble onto the story until mid-January.

The inability of Bourassa and the Quebec Liberal party to communicate, however, still exists. It has been assessed and the longer it takes for somebody to do something about it the more credence will be given to the government's opponents, the Parti Quebecois.

There is an interesting post-script to the story.

After Hutchinson explained the incident repeatedly to the series of newsmen who asked him about his resignation, he had a telephone call from Quebec City.

The caller warned him that if he ever went back into private consulting, he would never have any work from the Quebec government.

Thanks for the Help

We protest the recent action of the new provincial government in abolishing the office of the provincial co-ordinator for the status of women. Is this the regard with which we, the women of B.C., are held by the Social Credit party? What is to become of the equal employment opportunities program in the public service, or of the recommendations of the Berger commission on matrimonial property now? These are important issues that touch the lives of every female in our province, feminist or not! On what dusty shelf will the rich fund of information gathered by Gene Errington and her small staff rest?

For the invaluable service provided by Gene and the office workers, we say thank you. — "Strings," a Colwood community resources group, c-o Karyn Lehmann, 276 Portsmouth Drive.

Not Rescinded

On the front page of your Jan. 19 edition, you carried a story under the headline, More NDP Men Sacked.

Further down, the story read: "Clay Perry . . . also had his job . . . rescinded . . ."

I tendered my resignation from that job at 8:35 a.m. Friday, Dec. 12, 1975. The resignation was effective on Jan. 15, 1976.

The new cabinet may or may not have rescinded the job which I once had, on or about Jan. 19, 1976, but it certainly did not rescind "my" job.

The distinction may seem a fine one to you, but it is a very important one for me.

Cartoon Questioned

This is the second time I feel compelled to write you about cartoons of Queen Elizabeth. The expression shown on the Queen shows very poor taste by the artist and your newspaper. Queen Elizabeth has to listen to leading politicians in Britain. If everyone would welcime the Queen to Canada, I am sure there would be no refusal of the invitation to open the Olympics. Your cartoons slant the wrong way, and that is not so smart as you may think. — Thomas F. Baxter, 916 Heywood Avenue.

Common Sense

Your column of Jan. 17 entitled, Before the Judge reported upon a case where Provincial Judge Blake Allan sentenced an individual to one month in jail for failing to obey a court order, namely report to a probation officer and perform community service work.

A minor case undoubtedly. However, the judge expressed an opinion and an attitude which I wish to support; that "the courts mean what they say." The use of alternatives to imprisonment for individuals who present no danger to the public is worth developing. And in this instance where a person did not take seriously the intent of court last June, the use of jail can reinforce that original order, since after serving the one month, community work will still have to be performed. I am pleased that at least in this instance that justice took a common sense direction — Hilda Jack, 3712 Balfour Avenue.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of January 26, 1916

The prevalence of influenza at this time in Victoria is stated to be more widespread than in previous years, almost every office and home being affected by sickness, while the doctors are having a busy time in responding to calls everywhere. Fortunately, the mortality from this disease is very small in Victoria. One medical man estimates the total number of influenza cases at 6,000. The name of the disease comes from Italy, and arises from an association of the disease with the influence of the stars.

VICTORIA TIMES, established 1884, is published every afternoon except Sunday by the Times Publishers, Limited, 2621 Douglas Street, Victoria, B.C. Second class mail registration No. 0625. Welfare—Good for Bureaucrats

By BRIDGET A. MORAN
In the Vancouver Sun

Mrs. Moran is a well-known figure in the field of social welfare. She has conducted many battles with various governments on the subject, and is a registered social worker who lives in Prince George.

During the election campaign, Bill Bennett dropped a word -- and a low, almost animal noise erupted from his thousands of listeners.

Reporters noted that he stopped, nonplussed by the reaction from his audience. A few minutes later, the word was inadvertently dropped again, and again came a rumbling and angry roar from the audience. His reaction, said reporters, was stunned bewilderment.

The word was 'welfare'!

It is beyond dispute that welfare, just as surely as mining royalties, was an issue, and a burning one.

Voters had drawn several conclusions about the welfare syndrome. Aided and abetted by the rather cavalier announcement in September of 1974, that the department of human resources was overspending to the tune of $103.5 million, the voters had decided that the Province of British Columbia was top heavy with welfare recipients, and that these same welfare recipients were living on the fat of the land.

The voters were not wrong in voicing their fury about the hundreds of millions of dollars that were dissipated in the last three or four years.

Their only mistake was to believe that during these same years, those hundreds of millions of dollars reached the pockets of the poor.

I have many friends and many acquaintances who live on welfare. Some of them are called recipients of social assistance and some of them are called welfare workers or social workers.

Years ago, I formed the impression that the recipients of Social Assistance, 70 per cent of whom are women raising children alone, do very poorly under the welfare system, and that the group called welfare and social workers manage, through all the vicissitudes of political change, to do correspondingly better.

As a kind of statistical exercise, I recently compared the financial history of two women over the past three or four years. One was a widow raising three children on social assistance, and the other was a financial aid worker in the department of human resources, also a widow, raising three boys.

In 1972 the woman on social assistance paid $200 per month rent and continues to pay that rent today; the financial aid worker lives in an older home which carries a mortgage, including taxes, of just under $200 per month.

On September 1st, 1972, the financial aid worker was receiving a salary of $634 per month.

As of December 11, 1975, election day in British Columbia, she was being paid, including a cost of living bonus, approximately $870 per month..

Unless my mathematics is faulty, this is an increase of 37 per cent over a period of three years.

Since, in these years, the cost of living index, pegged at 100 in 1972, rose to 140 in 1975, her increase in wages nearly kept up with the havoc of inflation.

Although she was no better off in 1975 than she was in 1972, her standard of living did not deteriorate.

In contrast, on Sept. 1, 1972, the widow on social assistance, whose welfare is administered by the financial aid worker, was receiving for herself and her four children, $321.70.

After paying her rent, she had exactly $121.70 to cover the cost of food, clothing, heat and lights.

By December 11, 1975, she was receiving $407.50, an increase of $85.80 to meet the needs of herself and her three children.

During the years between 1972 and 1975, food and clothing costs probably doubled. The cost of living index rose, as we said, from 100 to 140; this woman already barely subsisting in 1972 had, by 1975, fallen far below that unacceptable level.

No one would argue with the salaries or increases in salaries of the staff of the human resources department. They fall far short of munificent.

What some of us have questioned, with one minister after another, is the need for so much staff. It does seem a bit thick to blame welfare recipients for increased welfare costs when, in fact, their situation is worsening daily.

The recipients know, and the public should be aware, that the mother on welfare is asking only for enough to maintain herself and her children at a decent level.

Instead, as government succeeds government, she is given programs and welfare workers and resources boards, none of which can solve her basic dilemma:

"How on earth am I to feed my children during the last week of every month"?

I have lived through a long list of welfare ministers, including Eric Martin, Wesley Black, Dan Campbell, Phil Gaglardi, Norm Levi.

To every one of these ministers, I have said in effect:

"In my humble opinion, you are starting at the wrong end".

It seems self-evident to me, as it does to many social workers and to the many people living on welfare whom I know, that if social assistance, pegged to the cost of living, truly met the cost of housing and food and clothing, about 75 per cent of the welfare workers could be phased out and about 75 per cent of the programs, dreamed up in the vacuum of tidy little offices in Victoria and Vancouver could be scrapped.

Ministers of welfare have not, to this day, been able to accept this basic propostion.

In the recent past, we have gone through the experience of setting up community resources boards, an adventure the cost of which we cannot even begin to calculate.

Wherever I turn in whatever community I am in, I am stumbling over resources boards' workers or research people or consultants or managers or directors, most of whom are being paid to explain to the widow on social assistance how to cope with a 40 or 50 per cent inflation rate with a 24 per cent increase in income.

If I were the minster of human resources, I would, as quickly as possible, turn the clock back to 1973 — in other words, I would get rid of the community resources boards, bag and baggage.

I might retain two or three of the more competent staff members to drift about the province, encouraging communities to set up welfare councils to meet and advise local councils and the provincial government about community needs.

I would, if I were minister, immediately study social assistance rates and set them at a realistic level.

The Association of Social Workers, citizen groups, health organizations, the staff in human resources, are ready and able to advise on this.

I would defend this action, both in cabinet and with the public, confident that, in short order, the savings in staff salaries and airy-fairy projects would be nothing short of phenomenal.

Above all, if I were minister, I would not get caught up in regulations that decide who is deserving and who is not — the cost of administering such regulations, the staff required to make these regulations work, play havoc with any welfare budget.

I would take a leaf from the books of mincome and the unemployment insurance commission, and make eligibility, and not some vague moral virtue, my sole criterion.

In all of that time, I have watched, bemused, the launching of a thousand welfare programs, costing hundreds of millions of dollars.

★ ★ ★

As each program staggered and stumbled its way to extinction, we were assured that, at last, a battle in the poverty war was being won.

Victory, however, in this particular war remains as elusive as ever — only the bureaucratic maze shows signs of health and virility and growth.

The one program we have never launched, the one solution governments have never considered seriously, is the payment of an adequate income to poor people.

If I were minister of human resources—

If I were, I would, I believe, try this last, this ultimate solution.

Giant Isopod in the New York Aquarium

Ancient Isopods Rare Creatures

By GEORGE GOODMAN

NEW YORK — Six rare sea animals that resemble giant versions of the sow bugs found under rocks and rotting wood were placed on display at the New York Aquarium last week.

The sand-colored animals — bathynomous giganteus — are isopods, crustaceans related to the familiar crabs and lobsters. They range in size from 12 to 18 inches. They were dredged from a depth of 250 fathoms the previous week in rough seas off the Gulf of Mexico in a special expedition that netted chain dog fish, gooseneck barnacles and other unusual creatures also being shown at the aquarium.

On the day of their debut, the new arrivals flapped about in a large tank only when staff members lightly poked them into moving for the benefit of news photographers. Otherwise they were lethargic.

"How would you feel if you had been just dragged up from a depth of nearly 1,500 feet?" asked Jack Rudloe, president of the Gulf Specimen Co., which had been commissioned by Nixon Griffis, a trustee of the New York Zoological Society, to carry out the project.

"I saw one of them devour a mackerel in nearly three minutes," Rudloe said "and you'd think after the shock they've undergone they wouldn't be eating at all." However, he and other staff members were concerned about the animals, one of which occasionally spat up a brown liquid.

"We're hoping for the best, but we know nearly nothing about their habits or their longevity," Rudloe said.

Isopods, believed to be among the most ancient living creatures, are found only in a few places in the world.

"We know they are in the Japanese Sea and in places like the Bay of Bengal," said Rudloe, "but we decided on dredging in a strip of water 120 miles south of Bon Secour, Ala., in the Gulf of Mexico after studying a computer print-out of locations where the animal has been spotted over the last 10 years."

The search began on Jan. 5 when Rudloe instructed his crew to drop huge nets from a 90-foot shrimp boat along the slope of the Continental Shelf.

"Our success was phenomenal," Rudloe said. He pointed out that such creatures did not often survive the pressure of dredging and the sudden temperature and pressure face.

The seven crew members stood by as the nets were pulled on board. Seconds after, the catch was landed.

He said, it was placed in special holding tanks with water at a constant temperature of 43 degrees Fahrenheit.

There were nearly 1,000 fish in each haul, he said, but most did not survive. "There werde opalescent anemones, deep-sea lobsters, moon snails and snails that looked like jewels," he said. "I saw squid that looked like octopus and octopus that looked like squid."

The project, financed by a $5,000 private grant, will have scientific value as well as enhancing the aquarium exhibit offering. At the Osborn Laboratory, next door to the aquarium, George Ruggieri, a marine biologist, will study the possibility of using marine animals captured on the expedition in manufacturing antibiotics.

Shareholders Not in Control

This is the second of two articles, a lecture by Dr. Horst Albach of the University of Bonn at the annual meeting of the Society for Economic and Social Science Institute for Social Policy. The topic is The Social Responsibility of Companies and the article is reprinted from the Frankfurter Allgemeine.

The significance of the shareholders as a group of people who considerably influence the policies of a company has clearly grown less, as can be seen in the Guiding Principles. In nineteen of the thirty-six Guiding Principles thus analysed, groups of people were definitely mentioned whose interest in the running of a company is significant. Only four of the Guiding Principles explicitly mention the shareholders.

The companies are therefore no longer a social unit with a single "electorate" but organizations possessing several "voting groups". The change from the "single-constituency corporation" to the "multi-constituency organization" which has established itself in America, has also taken hold of the German self-awareness and of the companies.

With this transformation of the concept of a company's various affected groups, upon which the company's executives could orientate themselves, a transformation in the duties and aims of the company's activity has also taken place. The following statements can be verified on the basis of the Guiding Principles:

1. Profitmaking is now as then the primary aim of a company's policy. But profitmaking is not seen so much as a precondition for the fulfilling of the shareholders' interests but much more as a social-political duty.

2. Securing competitiveness, stability and growth of a company are of especial importance when the company makes decisions.

3. In matters of vital decisions the company places especial importance on the securing of jobs, the guaranteeing of a decent existence of the employees and the fulfilling of social and humane needs.

The Guiding Principles stress the social function of a company's profitableness. Even in the one "Guiding Principle," in which the words "maximum profitmaking" appear, they are instrumental for achieving the aim of securing jobs: "In addition to the goal of maximum profitmaking, increasing of market position and — connected therewith — long-term securing of jobs in our company . . ."

Other Guiding Principles state "The ability to create an appropriate yield serves to secure jobs." "A company's ability to make a valuable contribution, to guarantee the security of jobs, and to support the state in fulfilling its various duties, depends on its ability to make profits." "Only profits enable a company to improve the incomes of its employees."

The social justification for the making of a profit and for the application of a profit thus takes up much space in the Guiding Principles. This allows at least the conclusion that the social function of a company operated on private economic principles is no longer self-evident. It requires justification.

I do not consider it right in this argument calling profit a "social indicator" to only want to see the defence against popular and fashionable attacks on our economic system. Rather we should see this as an argument to fill a gap which existed in companies in the fifties and sixties. Especially a liberal economic system based on decentralized organization and decision-making requires constant justification in society.

The omissions of the fifties and sixties are now being remedied by the Guiding Principles. In this sense, they are witnesses for a more conscious political dimension in personnel management.

The changing of emphasis on the decision-making process of the entrepreneur is a result of the more conscious or one might say more critical awareness of society. This development to the "emancipated citizen" has found its reflection in personnel management of the companies.

Haire, Ghiselli and Porter, in their detailed examination of the style of management of managers from different nations, made in the sixties, found it justifiable to state that the German manager seemed to think that he could do justice to his task only by showing strength, energy, determination, infallibility and authority. Therefore, they calssified his style of management as being rather authoritarian.

In the last years, the style of management in German enterprises has undergone a considerable change. This is clearly shown in the Guiding Principles that were examined. It can clearly be seen that there is a rejection of authoritarian methods and a will to develop a style of co-operative management.

Four points are important here:

1. The companies accept their staff as emancipated persons whose interests have to be respected.

2. The companies recognize that such personnel cannot be led by orders but rather by persuasion.

3. The companies have learned that the will to work efficiently is not automatically a consequence of the employment contract but results from taking on purposeful and responsible work.

4. The companies accept the fact that their personnel want to take on responsibility by a stronger decentralization of decision-making. Information and delegation of responsibility are the most important means of management in such a process.

The rules for the workers of the machine tool company C. Reichenbach of September, 1846 state: "The time of work is 6 o'clock till 12 noon and 1 p.m. till 7 p.m. except on Saturdays when work shuts down at 6 p.m. ... Workers who are not at their place of work five minutes after the bell rings receive an hour's punishment ... disputes among workers and other transgressions of the regulations will be punished by an appropriate deduction from the wages and, if the circumstances demand it, by immediate dismissal."

A bunch of the boys from the Nova Scotia chambers of commerce met the other day to oppose government interference in the free enterprise system and then they got down to the nubby-grubby of demanding government interference in the free enterprise system.

They were preparing themselves for upcoming discussions with the provincial cabinet and, according to the Halifax Chronicle-Herald, decided "to press government to lessen its interference in the free enterprise system." They also wanted "to see government expenditures curtailed where they infringe on free enterprise."

Having said in general terms what they did not want from government, some of them then said in specific terms what they did want from government. Somehow, there was a contradiction in there somewhere.

Now I'm one of those to whom even so basic an economic principle as the law of supply and demand is a mystery more profound than the marriage of computers to astronomy; but it seemed to me that what those chaps from the chambers wanted sounded suspiciously like devilish, socialistic, government mucking-about in the dear, old, free market.

They talked, for instance, about the desirability of a "unified national price for crude oil" and, for the life of me, I can't figure how we can have that without either a rare demonstration of divine intervention or a hearty dollop of government interference in the free market.

Then they wanted transportation subsidies, binding arbitration in tough labor disputes, protection and replenishment of forests, financial support for small sawmills and a whole basketful of government goodies for the tourist industry.

Moreover, in past years, the chambers have asked for government stabilization of farm incomes, government promotion of processing raw materials at home; government extension of freight subsidies on feed; government continuation of DREE policies; government aid to industry during conversion to the metric system; and so on. And on.

If you find all this confusing, it's just because all examples of government interferences in FES (the free enterprise system) are equal but some examples of government interference in FES are more equal than others.

Meanwhile an elder statesman of the chamber, past national president A. Gordon Archibald told a reporter Trudeau "wants to get us into a state of complete socialism." Achibald is chairman of the board of Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Co. which, as a legislated monopoly, is a triumph of enlightened government interference in FES.

His stature and opinions inspired our morning paper to tell us—in red, inch-deep, front-page, capital letters — that VIRTUAL DICTATORSHIP LOOMS. By now, of course, Jack Horner had already compared Trudeau to Hitler and, over the tinkle of breakfast on that dark dawn, we were sure we heard tanks rumbling up Spring Garden Road.

Meanwhile Premier Alex Campbell endorsed Trudeau's opinions so boldly we can only conclude he's become the fuhrer of Prince Edward Island.

In the past, he suggested, unrestrained FES had enabled Canadian industry to buy small Maritime companies and then destroy them. In the future, unrestrained FES could enable the distant boardrooms of multinational corporations to control the jobs, industries and way of life in the Maritimes.

He talked specifics, too:

"You don't see how futile our efforts have been to get a local bread industry until you examine the corporate structure of the Weston empire which controls Loblaws, 40 per cent of Save-Easy, Lucky Dollar and, incidentally, owns Lanes Bakeries which sells the most bread in P.E.I. ... If you set up a bakery in P.E.I., look who you'd be competing with . . ."

★ ★ ★

Among those who claim that, in Canada, all things bright and beautiful flow directly from the glorious FES, Campbell sounded like a raving heretic: "Canada wouldn't have reached its present state of economic development if we'd relied entirely on free enterprise and the free market system."

He could have gone even further. In a sense, Canada would never have become Canada if it weren't for government interference in FES. Confederation itself was, in large part, a complicated agreement to conquer natural economic forces for the sake of a political ideal.. Surely the east coast knows that better than any other part of the country.

Maybe we need some new definitions.

Ontario Liberals Name A Political Rookie

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Stuart Smith, a 37-year-old psychiatrist from Hamilton, was elected the new leader of the Ontario Liberal party Sunday.

Dr. Smith, a political rookie first elected to the legislature for Hamilton West on Sept. 18, won a tense, three-ballot victory at the three-day convention.

He succeeds Robert Nixon, Liberal leader since 1967.

His last opponent on the ballot, David Peterson, 34, MPP for London Centre and a businessman who appeared to have the best organization, could not get delegates who had voted for other candidates to switch to him.

Considered the favorite when the convention began Friday, Dr. Smith was ahead on all three ballots and collected 998 votes to 953 for Mr. Peterson.

The other main contenders — Albert Roy, who was beaten on the second ballot, and Mark MacGuigan, who dropped out after the first ballot — told supporters to vote for the candidate of their choice after being defeated.

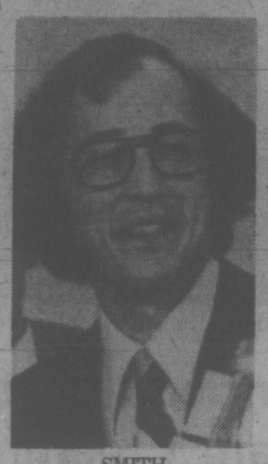
A relieved Dr. Smith, referring to the 45-vote margin between himself and Mr. Peterson, called the result a cliffhanger.

"There has finally come a time when words just won't suffice," Dr. Smith said.



SMITH
. . . two-way rookie

In a short address to the delegates, he promised the party would work to make life better for all parts of the province, in the cities and on the farms.

"The battle has begun, who knows when the next election will be," the new leader said. "As far as I'm concerned the party is ready for it."

Standing in the legislature is Progressive Conservative 51, NDP 38, Liberal 36.

Mr. Peterson, whose face showed the strain of the tense four hours of balloting, pledged his support for the new leader.

"I will give all of my energies, all of my time and all of my talent to making Stuart Smith the next premier of the province."

Mr. Nixon, who as leader lost three elections to the Progressive Conservatives and watched the NDP take over as official opposition in the last contest, called the convention the greatest in the history of the party. He said he was confident that with the strength of the Liberals they would form the next government.

Premier William Davis later congratulated Dr. Smith in a statement and wished him "the very best in the discharge of his new responsibilities as leader."

There were six candidates when voting started. Placings in the first round were: Dr. Smith 629, Mr. Peterson 518, Mr. Roy, MPP for Ottawa East, 469, Mr. MacGuigan, federal member for Windsor-Walkerville, 308, Mr. Condon, federal member for Middlesex - London - Lamberton, 37, and Ottawa businessman Michale Houlton, four.

'LIGHT WARP CAUSED UFOS'

CLOVIS, N.M. (UPI) — A temperature inversion distorting light from stars is apparently the cause of a rash of unidentified flying object sightings in eastern New Mexico, the director of a UFO study organization said Sunday.

Tommy Blann, 29, of Waco, Tex., the director of the Texas UFO study group, said he and three other members of the organization arrived in Clovis Sunday to examine the evidence of the sightings and concluded that "this case does not merit this attention.

"A lot of these objects being seen are nothing more than temperature inversions caused by cold air coming in from Canada and creating an optical refraction of the light from stars," Blann said.

The reported sightings began last Wednesday and have continued each night since. Police said most callers have described the objects as cigar - shaped with colored lights.

If You Think ICBC Tough . . .

SINGAPORE (AP) — Singapore's war on the private automobile has intensified with the government's latest offensive, designed to curb pollution and traffic congestion. It was unleashed on the last day of 1975.

Highway taxes were increased for the second time in nine months, registration charges were raised and the fee for a special sticker to drive downtown in morning rush hours with fewer than four persons per car was increased the equivalent of $24 to $32.

It now costs about 145 per cent more than the list price, insurance and shipping to put an imported car on the road in Singapore. Monthly costs have increased to about $200 from $145 a year ago.

This crowded island country of 2.2 million has only 226 square miles of land for an estimated 275,000 registered vehicles, 111,700 of them privately owned.

Earlier efforts to improve traffic flow — such as one-way streets, special bus lanes and staggered office hours — were unsuccessful.

Last June, the "area licencing scheme" was introduced to untangle morning rush hours jams. Private cars and taxis carrying fewer than four persons pay for the privilege of entering the central business district during the morning rush. Parking fees were increased.

Private cars and the 5,300 taxis now pay four Singapore dollars (about $1.60) a day to enter the central business district or buy a monthly sticker for 80 dollars ($32).

BEFORE THE JUDGE

For 30 years Victoria resident Frederick Chabon has had his problems with the law. And on Saturday it was apparent his problems are far from over.

Chabon, 49, appearing in Victoria provincial court before Judge D. K. McAdam, pleaded guilty to shoplifting a comb and pencil valued at 90 cents from T. Eaton's Friday afternoon.

McAdam asked to see a copy of Chabon's criminal record and it was accordingly passed up to him — a series of sheets stapled together and more than four feet long.

McAdam skimmed through it then looked up over his glasses at the accused standing with his eyes half closed in the prisoner's box and passed sentence — seven days in jail.

Homer Thornton St. Pierre, 59, pleaded guilty to committing an indecent act on a five-year-old boy in Victoria public library Friday.

McAdam remanded the accused to Feb. 6 for a probation officer report and released him on his own undertaking to return them for sentencing.

The court was told St. Pierre had no fixed abode but for the past 10 days had been residing in a youth hostel on Fernwood.

Upon hearing that McAdam ordered the accused to report to the bail supervisor and maintain contact with that office until the sentence date.

Winnipeg Bus Strike City's First Since 1919

WINNIPEG (CP) — Cold weather and brisk winds today ushered in the city's first transit strike since the Winnipeg General Strike of 1919, but while the weather didn't co-operate, it appeared motorists did.

It was apparent that many motorists left home earlier than usual to either beat the expected heavy rush or to meet suggestions that they pick up transit users at bus stops.

But apparently most of the bus riders had pre-arranged alternate transportation as few people were observed waiting at the bus stops.

Some hardier souls lugged bicycles out of basements for transportation, despite temperatures that dipped to minus 28 Celsius, a 12-mile-an-hour wind and slippery streets.

Garage doors were closed on the buses as they were returned after their final runs Sunday night and members of the Amalgamated Transit Union Division 1505 formed pickets at 6 a.m. today.

For the estimated 18,900 regular daily users of the system, there was no indication of when the strike would end.

"It could last a day, two days or two months," said Harry Cohen, president of the union which represents 939 bus drivers and 200 mechanics.

"The sooner we get back to the bargaining table, the sooner the strike will be over," said Cohen, who said he was not impressed by an attempt Sunday afternoon by city officials to get the strike deadline postponed.

The officials who met with Cohen asked for a postponement until it could be determined whether a wage offer was within the federal anti-inflation guidelines.

"The issue should be left to the bargaining table," Cohen said. "If we can get a signed contract or memorandum of agreement and then send it to the board, we will abide by its ruling."

Under a contract that expired Jan. 3, the top wage rate was $5.95 an hour. The city offered raises of 8.3 per cent plus one per cent in fringe benefits, while the union's latest counterproposal is an 18 per cent wage-benefits package boost.

The union contends the city's offer is far short of maintaining the historic relationship between transit workers in Winnipeg and in other cities.

Jubilee Doctor Has a Heart of Plastic

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

With pipes and tubes and blocks of plastic, it doesn't look a bit like a real heart. But with glycerine and water for blood, it works just like one in the search for a better valve.

The curious apparatus in a laboratory at Royal Jubilee Hospital is the creation of Dr. Richard Brownlee and research assistant Larry Scotten.

It duplicates exactly the pressures and flows found in the heart but it's just a testing chamber for one part of the heart which sometimes goes awry and has to be replaced — the mitral valve.

There are artificial mitral valves now which work well but could work even better. For five years now Brownlee, who is a heart surgeon and director of the hospital's open heart surgery unit, has been taking a new approach in trying to build a more refined valve.

The mitral valve sits between atrium and ventricle, two chambers on the left side of the heart. It's a skirt-like structure, a sort of truncated cone of thin but tough tissue which Brownlee describes as a marvellous piece of engineering when it's working right.

But about a quarter of open heart surgery cases locally are for replacement of heart valves. The mitral valve can be damaged by such conditions as rheumatic fever.

Brownlee believes that the major advances in heart surgery in the next few years will be in refinement of techniques now being used. In trying to design a better mitral valve he is counting on the normal function of the rest of the heart, the blood flow patterns made by the heart pump itself, to open and close his artificial valve.

What material the valve should be made from is a problem to consider later. Meanwhile Brownlee and Scotten are employing a movie camera which takes 1,600 frames a second to study how the artificial valve works in action.

Pointed into the plastic heart with its glycerine blood, the high speed camera records a heart beat taking six-tenths of a second and stretches it into a move 3½ minutes long so every action can be studied in detail.

Setting up the test bed, the artificial heart, has taken most of the time spent on the research so far, Brownlee says. Work on the valve design has only moved into high gear in the past year.

Already he has spotted changes he wants to make in the design he is working with and there will be more which the heart and camera will uncover for him.

The research project is one of 23 being supported by the B.C. Heart Foundation, which will hold its annual drive for funds next month. The foundation has contributed about $35,000 to his work in the past and Brownlee is asking for $5,000 this year to buy a photo readout of pressure tracings, a more accurate technique than is now being used.

Provincial goal of the heart foundation this year is $975,000, with the target on Vancouver Island being $125,000.

Campaign officials ask that anyone who can devote one hour to canvassing next month, please phone 382-3933.

'FIRST FATAL' IS WOMAN, 25

Victoria police asked today for any witnesses to a fatal accident at Cook and Lang at 11:55 p.m. Saturday to contact the traffic department.

Twenty-five-year-old Shirley Chilibeck of 1410 Fort died in Royal Jubilee at 2:30 a.m. Sunday of injuries she received when her 10-speed bicycle was in collision with a car driven by Eric Abraham, 20, of 3150 Jutland.

She is the first person to die in a motor vehicle accident in Victoria city this year.

Discharged Scout Accepts $7,000

An out of court settlement of $7,000 has been accepted by former Victoria region Boy Scouts executive director Jack Scrivener, who was discharged in the fall of 1974.

Scrivener, now of Vancouver, alleged he was dismissed wrongfully from the post he held for seven years, and launched a suit that was to be heard starting today in B.C. Supreme Court.

Counsel for the claimant, Clifford Watt, said the settlement represents a compromise of the claim for damages that was scheduled for a full week's trial.

Donald Farquhar, representing the Boy Scouts of Canada, said the amount stood for settlement of a disputed claim, recognizing Scrivener's service. The settlement did not acknowledge wrongful dismissal, he said.

Scrivener's counsel said the claimant's job had been rearranged and Scrivener was to have been based in Vancouver under terms which he claimed were not adhered to.

When he refused to accept the job under those conditions, he was discharged.

INSECTS FOR SNACKS 'MATTER OF TIME'

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

The curator of the largest forest insectarium in western Canada thinks its only a matter of time when it will become fashionable for Canadians to eat some insects as a hors d'oeuvre or an after-dinner sweet.

Entomologist Dave Evans of the Pacific Forest Research Centre on Burnside Road, sees nothing distasteful about eating insects, especially the chocolate-coated ones.

Insects such as locusts, bees, grubs are eaten in other parts of the world and found quite palatable," he said. "The reason they are not eaten here is purely psychological."

"Yes, they will eventually become acceptable as food in the western world," he added.

Since 1949 Evans has built up a collection of insects which has become of immense scientific value. It includes 60,000 specimens, representing 5,000 species.

Most of the insects are defoliators and bark borers — the former evolving from the larvae stage into moths and the latter into beetles.

Then there are the flies which are mostly scavengers feeding on decayed material, and the predators who prey on other insects and help control the population of certain species.

Evans thinks the reason why so many people are repelled by insects is because they have little or no knowledge about them.

While some insects are pests and have to be controlled because they destroy trees and crops, they also do a lot of good, such as pollination, he said.

"If we were to wipe out all insects, we would go too," he said. "Even exterminating one pest, would not be to our advantage because we don't know the effect it would have on the chain of life."

He observed that some insects are extremely attractive but many of the beauties can't be appreciated with the naked eye because they are too minute. They have to be seen through a microscope or glass.

Evans and technician, Mrs. Erika Pass are kept busy during the summer months identifying and cataloguing thousands of insects for the forest industry. They also rear them for research work.

"It is most important for our work," he said. Every summer forest rangers make a survey of forest insects and send thousands to the insectarium for identification, he explained.

He said this enabled entomologists to determine the population increases of certain species and if they are a threat to trees.

"We can also keep track of new insects which have been introduced into this country by some means," he said. "They are identified in the insectarium."

Paperboy's Act 'Saves Building'

About $10,000 damage was done in a fire in a house at 474 Torquay early Sunday but it could have been worse if it hadn't been for quick-thinking actions of a Colonist paperboy.

Saanich fire chief Harold Gains said John Anderson, 15, of 4490 Majestic was out delivering his morning route when he spotted smoke and flame in the basement of the house.

The youth apparently tried to rouse the occupants but getting no answer went to the home of a neighbor who called the fire department.

Gains commended the youth and said that because of his actions firemen were able to save the building from total destruction.

The chief said the fire was confined to the basement although there was smoke damage throughout the single-storey dwelling.

Gains and said fire officials will try to determine the cause of the blaze today. He noted the fire appeared to have centred in a portable bar under a stairwell in the unfinished basement.

Mayor Ready For Questions

Victoria residents who want to be informed on city council's policies, problems and priorities will have an opportunity to question Mayor Mike Young in the Cable 10 Tuesday at Nine program this week.

100 Guns Stolen

As many as 100 handguns may have been taken in a spectacular break-in at Robinson Sporting Goods,. 1307 Broad, overnight.

Store owner Doug Robinson said today he hasn't "a clue" as to the extent of the loss as he was still making an inventory check.

"All I know is they got plenty."

He said a cabinet containing handguns kept in a back storeroom was emptied and some ammunition taken. No rifles or other weaponry appeared to be missing.

"Whoever it was knew where to go," he said calling the theft a "serious loss."

Robinson said the thieves entered the store by smashing in some stairs above the backroom and dropping 10 feet to the floor. The stairs are used as a fire escape for businesses on the second floor.

He presumed the thieves must have come over the roof, broken in upstairs and then worked their way down.

He believed they used a sledge hammer to bash in the stairs.

"One guy couldn't have done this alone," he said. "And whoever came through the hole in the stairwell was taking a chance as it's quite a drop to the floor."

When he arrived to work at 9 a.m. today he found a ladder leading up to the hole.

He said he was in the store until 5 p.m. Sunday and a billiard hall located above the store was open to 11 p.m. The break-in, he reasoned, must have taken place sometime later.

Time Out To Search For Bombs

Victoria police said they received a call at 5:45 p.m. that there was a bomb planted in the arena and would go off in 15 minutes. The caller was described as a young male.

A group of youths playing hockey were asked to leave the ice but returned to finish their game after the search was completed and the deadline for the bomb to go off had passed.

Brutal Beating Followed By 'Keep Quiet' Gunshot

Two men and a woman in their twenties are being sought by Colwood RCMP in connection with the brutal beating of a 33-year-old man in his Christie Point apartment early Sunday.

Robert Perry, of apartment 7, The Pines, 2891 Craigowan, is listed in satisfactory condition in Victoria General Hospital today with severe head wounds including a broken jaw.

Police said the three unidentified suspects went to Perry's residence at about 3:30 a.m., rang the door bell and when Perry appeared, clad in night attire, they knocked him to the floor and punched and kicked him in the head.

Police said one of the men was armed with what is believed to have been a sawed-off shotgun and after the assault fired a blast through a living-room window as a warning to Perry to keep silent about the incident.

A police spokesman said Perry's wife, Sharon, asleep in a bedroom, was awakened by the commotion, came out to investigate but was told to return and close the door. The couple's two children were asleep in another bedroom.

One resident, living four doors away from Perry's suite said he was jarred from his slumber after hearing "a loud bang."

Police said the description they have of the three assailants is vague and incomplete but reports would indicate two men and a woman were involved. Police do not believe the woman took part in the assault but had apparently "just gone along for the ride."

Neither Mrs. Perry nor her two children were hurt.

'GANGLAND STYLE MURDER' REMAND

David John Ross, 32, was remanded in custody to Wednesday when he appeared in Victoria Provincial Court today charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment.

Court prosecutor Scott Marshall estimated there would be 14 to 18 witnesses, up to eight of them from across the prairie provinces, during preliminary hearing to be scheduled Wednesday for a later date.

Ross was arrested last Wednesday in Winnipeg in connection with the shooting of Malcolm Preston Cunningham, 27, whose body was found in the bushes near the CPR tracks in the Sooke area Dec. 22, 1975.

Police described the killing as a drug-related "gangland-style" murder.

For the Evacuees, It Was a Gas

ANZAC, Alta. (CP) — The 200 residents of this northeastern Alberta community, evacuated early Saturday evening when the town was engulfed in a gas cloud containing poisonous hydrogen sulphide, returned home Sunday.

RCMP constable Mike Hampel said extensive air searches and readings taken in the area Sunday revealed no sign of the poisonous gas, which had spouted from a closed oil sands test well.

"We assume the clouds are dissipated, and have taken all emergency measures off," the constable said, adding that the air around the nearby town of Janvier, which had also been threatened by the clouds, had been found safe.

The gas, described as a cloud 15 miles long and 200 yards wide, escaped when the well blew while a 10-man team tried to plug a leak detected at the well, said Dave McAsey of Calgary, public affairs manager of Amoco Canada Petroleum Co. Ltd., the company that drilled the well a year ago.

McAsey said the well spouted "a mixture of tar, water, mud and gas and emitted a small quantity of (poisonous) hydrogen sulphide gas."

Three hours after the incident, the well was capped, cutting off the escaping gas.

At least one resident enjoyed the experience. According to Lenora Mulawka, it was the first exciting thing ever to happen in the town.

Mrs. Mulawka, 46, who runs a small combined grocery store and cafe in the town 225 miles northeast of Edmonton, said she was cooking a hamburger for a customer when her husband, Jim, told her the entire town was about to be overcome by the gas cloud.

She said there was no panic as everyone with a vehicle was asked to line up on the one road leading out of town and wait for passengers.

OPEC UNDER GUARD

PARIS (UPI) — Finance ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries met today under the tightest security ever imposed on an international conference in France to decide how to pump $1 billion of oil money into the economies of poor countries.

The meeting at the international conference centre in Paris' hotel Majestic followed OPEC's Nov. 18 decision establishing the $1 billion fund to prop up the economies of third world countries and offset their big balance-of-payment deficits.

The conference marks the first time OPEC has met in Paris, considered safer than Vienna where pro-Palestinian terrorists attacked the group's headquarters last month and took 10 ministers hostage.

Security sources said more than 2,500 policemen were deployed in Paris alone to guard the Majestic — for four years the site of the Vietnam peace talks and Paris headquarters for the Gestapo during the Second World War.

The sources said that for the past several days, unusually stringent checks have been carried out at all the country's frontiers and at harbors and airports to forestall the entry of any would-be terrorists.

London Sending Angola 250 Trained Mercenaries

LONDON (Reuter) — About 250 mercenaries recruited here at $300 a week were said to be heading for Angola today to join pro-Western forces fighting a Soviet-backed nationalist movement there.

"They are all fully trained men," said former British paratrooper John Banks, a recruiting organizer. "Most of them served in the British army."

Teetotaler's a Freak To Imbibing Austrians

VIENNA (AP) — In Austria alcohol addiction and drunken driving are growing fast while large segments of public opinion continue to ridicule a teetotaler as a freak.

Wine and beer drinking is virtually a national pastime all year round. Doctors are fighting an uphill battle to stamp out the widespread belief that anyone tipsy is lovable or at least funny.

There are uncounted jokes on the straitlaced teetotaler. He is depicted as a dried-out, humorless person, narrow-minded and intolerant, anything but lovable and "gemuetlich"—the Viennese word for easygoing.

Neither inflation nor economic crisis talk have affected the sale of spirits in this country where the centuries-old "wine, women and song" philosophy seems to linger on.

Apart from Vienna's suburban Grinzing and Sievering pubs attracting hundreds of thousands of foreign tourists to taste the "heuriger"—meaning this year's wine but in fact including previous vintages—eastern Austria has scores of wineselling villages to cater to an ever-thirsty clientele.

And in a corner, a small band that includes an accordion, a violin and a guitar player churns out melancholy music of love, life and death.

It is in the taverns that people forget daily chores and troubles, income brackets and social levels—and having to drive home.

Around the Austrian capital, every fourth Viennese goes to a tavern once a week and every second Viennese every weekend, reliable statistics show.

Police records pinpoint an alarming byproduct: Some 48 per cent of the tavern-goers use their own car on workdays, 43 per cent on weekends, while only one-third use public transport and a few walk.

Ever since the Socialists set up a special health ministry in 1970, the minister, Dr. Ingrid Leodolter, herself a physician, has organized annual campaigns to warn Austrians of the health hazards involved in their massive beer and wine intake.

But these efforts seem to have been fruitless, and doctors say that in terms of pure-alcohol consumption Austria is a superpower.

That reported record is also reflected in a sharp increase in drunken driving offences d in the 100,000 registered and and another 100,000 "unofficial" addicts.

At least as alarming as the over-all increase in alcohol patients is the growing addiction of women. While the man-woman ratio was 10:1 in 1930, it has narrowed to 2:1 this year.

In 1961, authorities set up the Kalksburg alcoholic sanatorium on the southern outskirts of Vienna, which has cured thousands of addicts and has become a model for similar efforts abroad.

Its statistics show that 55 per cent of Kalksburg patients are known to be permanently cured after a seven-year period, with some of the 75 per cent cured after one year relapsing later.

The Kalksburg home also offers "individual short-time therapy" over seven weeks for cases warranting fast treatment and houses a special department for women.

Warning on Shanty-Town for Habitat

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police have told planners for the Habitat conference to forget about a possible tent city or shanty town at the proposed Habitat Forum site to handle an overflow of non-governmental delegates.

The warning is contained in a confidential letter from deputy chief constable A. E. Oliver to Maurice Egan, Vancouver city social planning director.

The United Nations-sponsored Habitat conference and Habitat forum, a parallel conference May 31 to June 11, are seeking ways to improve housing throughout the world.

Oliver said Saturday the letter, written Jan. 9, on behalf of Chief Constable Don Winterton, was confidential and was intended to be seen only by Vancouver's Habitat committee.

The letter said: "It must be firm in everyone's mind that the Vancouver police force is opposed to any form of tent city or shanty town."

The letter said Habitat officials have disclosed that not enough accommodation has been located and that habitat planners are thinking in terms of a tent city.

"The problem in the past with this sort of living arrangement is quite clear," the letter said.

"The habitation of Jericho (the Habitat forum site on English Bay) in the past was a sordid site that invited almost every kind of vice and militant dissident," the letter said.

Use of the old building at the former Canadian Forces base at Jericho led to confrontation with the army, the RCMP and Vancouver police when transients had to be evicted from the premises, the letter said.

The letter also said that the director of the nearby Jericho Hill School for the Blind fears that the chance of trespassing by persons living at the Habitat site is so great he is seeking advice as to whether or not he should evacuate the school.

"We feel the physical unsuitability of Jericho for habitation would invite serious citizen reaction as the development of a tent city at this site would create an environment detrimental to health and conducive to criminal and other anti-social behavior, the letter said.

The letter asked Egan to help Habitat officials provide alternate accommodation without having to resort to a tent city.

Up to 10,000 people from 142 countries are expected to visit Vancouver during both conferences, organizers say.

Al Clapp, Habitat Forum manager, said more than the 3,200 beds at the University of British Columbia will be needed for Habitat Forum visitors.

Clapp said city officials have been considering a properly-organized campsite for tents and trailers, but said there is no reason why such a campsite should turn into a hippie village.

There's nothing to be afraid of if it is well organized. The army put up a bunch of tents for the Stockholm conference on the environment and it was fine."

Clapp said he could not believe the remarks attributed to the director of the school for the blind.

18-MONTH SUSPENSION

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 37 Vancouver postal workers who crossed picket lines during the pre-Christmas postal strike will remain suspended from the Canadian Union of Postal Workers until the June, 1977, convention when they can appeal, Vancouver local president Peter Whittaker said Sunday. The employees can stay on the job and must pay union dues but can't participate in union activities.

'Something Dramatic' To Save Woods Firms

VANCOUVER (CP) — An investment dealer told the British Columbia Liberal caucus that the B.C. forest industry could be bankrupt within 10 years "if something dramatic doesn't happen." Murray Leith, a partner in Pemberton Securities Ltd., told nine MPs and senators that the forest industry currently is in a capital crisis and has zero physical growth prospects. Leith also said the federal government's proposed excess export profits levy would be counter-productive because it would deprive companies of needed internal capital. He compared the forest industry to debt-ridden New York City. "The (forest) industry borrowed and borrowed and borrowed," he said. "That's what New York did."

BURNABY (CP) — Cliff Oswald, defeated Social Credit candidate in Burnaby North, said Sunday that he will not appeal a judicial recount which showed him 124 votes behind Eileen Dailly, the former New Democratic Party education minister. Oswald said an appeal of the Dec. 11 provincial election result would take up to two years and, by then, another British Columbia election could be called.

KELOWNA (CP) — Glen Glogowski, 19, of Westbank, B.C., died after the small boat in which he and a companion were fishing capsized in Lake Okanagan. The two were participating in a fishing derby when the incident occurred. Donald Faulkner, 23, also of Westbank, was in hospital Sunday suffering from exposure and shock.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Deckhand Robert Millyard, 20 of Vancouver, died of head injuries when he was crushed between a tug and a scow at a slip just south of Vancouver.

Tongue Hung Jury

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia supreme court jury reduced to 11 members from the usual 12 minutes before delivering its verdict Saturday found Percy Noel Catagas of Vancouver guilty of manslaughter in the Sept. 25 knife slaying of a 73-year-old man.

Catagas was originally charged with murder of Veadk Kopreveca, also of Vancouver.

The jury had been out nearly 24 hours when it returned to report that it could not reach a unanimous verdict.

The foreman said a juror had problems understanding portions of the evidence because of his difficulty with the English language.

After submissions by lawyers, Judge D. E. Andres discharged the juror and the jury resumed deliberations. Minutes later it returned with the manslaughter verdict.

Catagas testified he was angered by homosexual advances made by Kopreveca.

He said he blacked out and the next thing he remembered was looking at the man's body.

Home for Spies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tiny Luxembourg has become a major base for Russian spying activities in Europe, Time magazine said Sunday. At least 12 of the 36 staff members in the Russian embassy in Luxembourg belong either to the KGB, the main intelligence agency, or the GRU, the military intelligence section, Time said.

PR. GEORGE BUSES BACK

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — School buses are running again today and city transit buses resumed service Saturday after a one-day strike by drivers against Prince George Transit and Sandard Bus Co.

The 58 drivers walked off their jobs early Friday to back contract demands. At issued was a extra pay of 35 cents an hour for shift differentials after each 11-hour shift. It was resolved Friday afternoon; neither side would say how.

Writing on the Wall for Patty . . .

TORRENCE, Calif. — Newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, is frustrated, highly intuitive, hard to influence and prone to rationalizations, a handwriting analyst says.

Miss Hearst, whose trial on federal bank robbery charges in San Francisco is scheduled to begin Tuesday, has undergone an emotional transformation between her February, 1974, disappearance and capture last Sept. 18, the analyst, Dorothy Jackson, says in an interview with the Torrance newspaper Daily Breeze.

"Patty Hears has tried throughout her life to believe only what she wants to believe," the analyst says.

"This enables her to escape those realities of life which she doesn't want to accept. Consequently she rationalizes and always is ready to justify her own acts. To openly communicate or even recognize the real facts is hard for her."

Since becoming involved with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army, Miss Hearst' handwriting has reflected significant changes, Mrs. Jackson says.

The dot on her "i" used to be round and firm, she says, but now it is a jab that indicates "her impatience and irritability."

Mrs. Jackson, a syndicated columnist for the Copley News Service, adds in the interview that evidence of Miss Hearst's "intuitive gifts" also appeared to vanish from her penmanship after her disappearance.

"Too, her purpose and will power have weakened," the analyst says.

The handwriting samples used for Miss Hearst's analysis include signatures on a 1972 driver's licence application and on the licence itself. Also used was a photograph of a handwritten slogan on the wall of an alleged SLA hideout in San Francisco. The slogan reads: "Patria O Muerte, Venceremos — Tania Nation or Death, We Shall Overcome — Tania."

TWO ON-AIR TRUCKERS AID IN U.S. ARREST

ADEL, Ga. — Two truck drivers and a citizens band radio Sunday helped police in southern Georgia capture a Florida prison escapee who earlier in the day had kidnapped a woman and sexually assaulted her. The fugitive was identified as John Tryon, 32, serving a five-year term at Cross City Correctional Institute for aggravated assault. Tryon was attending a party — sponsored by a civic club — with eight other prisoners when he apparently walked away. Tryon then broke into a residence . He bound and gagged a man, kidnapped the woman and escaped with her in the couple's car. A truck driver who followed the car across the Florida-Georgia line heard the police alert on his citizens band radio and enlisted a fellow trucker's help, police said. The other trucker got ahead of the car and when it pulled off Interstate 75 at a rest stop near Hahira, they blocked the entrance and exit and radioed police.

WINNIPEG (CP) — The school inspector, the individual most able to strike fear in the hearts of principals, teachers and students alike, will soon disappear from Manitoba's Public school system, deputy education minister Lionel Orlikow says. At one time, inspectors had a major impact on the province's school system—advising principals and trustees, discussing education philosophy with professionals in the field, and checking on the work of teachers and students — but their job has become less important in recent years. The superintendents of school divisions took over much of the workload after a 1967 reorganization of the system. And the number of inspectors has been reduced by about one-half since that time.

LOS ANGELES — Two Los Angeles men named Ramon Flores were born the same day, closely resemble each other, have nearly identical Social Security numbers and each is married with five children. One of them — the wrong one — spent Christmas and New Year's in jail. The wrong Flores, 36, a factory worker, was at home last Dec. 19 when police knocked on the front door. He was told a warrant charging him with murder had been issued in connection with the death of a 17-year-old boy in Fresno. Flores told investigators he had never been to Fresno and that on the day of the killing he was at work. However, Flores was taken to Fresno Dec. 22. He was arraigned Christmas Eve and a public defender was appointed. A preliminary hearing was not scheduled until Jan. 7, and his court-appointed lawyer did not interview Flores in depth until New Year's Eve. On Jan. 6, after witnesses said they did not recognize photos of the man in custody, police compared his fingerprints with those they had on file from the previous arrest record of a man named Ramon Flores. The next day, officials admitted their error. After 19 days in jail, one Flores was free. The other remains at large.

OPHEMERT, The Netherlands — Burglars crossed a moat in a rubber boat to enter a 17th-century Dutch castle and loot it of art treasures and antiques, police reported Sunday. The thieves entered Ophemert Castle by a back door to avoid the caretaker. After loading their boat with Japanese and Chinese porcelain, jade, antique clocks and vases worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, they recrossed the moat and made their getaway.

LOS ANGELES — Actor Al Pacino, 33, famous for his roles in the films The Godfather, Godfather II and Dog Day Afternoon, married 21-year-old actress Joanne-Alex Skylar on Sunday at a friend's home in Beverly Hills, his manager said. It was the first marriage for both. Mrs. Pacino just finished a film based on the life of Emma Voldman called Emma, An Anarchist.

Cons Get Cable TV

MONROE, Wash. — Prisoners here will be able to watch cable televsion in their cells, if they want to buy their own TV sets and pay a monthly rental fee of $10.

James Spaulding, associate superintendent in charge of corrections, said the institition is in the process of installing cable hookups into each of the 600 cells at a cost of $6,000.

The cable idea came about as a result of a period in late August and early September when all prisoners were confined to their cells, Spaulding said. Afterwards, the recreation area was moved out of the call area to gain more control over the institition, he said.

Organist Workshop

A choral workshop for singers and conductors is being sponsored by the Royal Canadian College of Organists, Vancouver Island branch.

It is to be given by Jon Washburn, conductor of the Vancouver Chamber Singers and Victoria Amity Singers, and will take place Jan. 31 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Matthias Church Hall, Richmond and Richardson.

The workshop is free to RCCO members. Non-members will be charged a fee of $2.50 payable at the door.

FEARS FOR LIFE

EL CERRITO, Calif. — Dennis Banks, fugitive leader of the American Indian Movement who was arrested here Saturday, says he fears for his life if he is returned to South Dakota to be sentenced on riot and assault convictions.

Banks' lawyer, Beverly Axelrod of San Francisco, said Banks "will fight extradition; being sent back to South Dakota might mean his death." She did not elaborate.

Banks, 38, was arrested Saturday after eluding authorities for six months. He was convicted in July, 1975, of charges resulting from a 1973 Custer, S.D., courthouse melee but did not appear in court for sentencing.

Bush to Get the Call As Scouts Lose Again

By The Canadian Press

Eddie Bush, who has spent most of his hockey career as a junior coach, apparently has one foot in the door for the coaching position with Kansas City Scouts.

But you couldn't blame him if he asks to have it removed after the Scouts dropped their 12th game in a row, 3-1 to Chicago Black Hawks in National Hockey League action Sunday night.

Bush, who played only part of one season in the NHL, has coached Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A teams at Guelph, Kitchener and Hamilton. He is expected to be named Kansas City coach today or Tuesday.

In other games Sunday, Boston Bruins defeated Philadelphia Flyers 5-3, Montreal Canadiens tied Detroit Red Wings 3-3, Los Angeles Kings beat New York Rangers 4-1, Buffalo Sabres downed St. Louis Blues 4-2, California Golden Seals topped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3, and Pittsburgh Penguins tied Minnesota North Stars 1-1.

On Saturday, it was: New York Islanders 5, Los Angeles 0; Montreal 5, Philadelphia 3; Pittsurgh 8, Washington Capitals 2; Boston 6, Detroit 1; Chicago 2, St. Louis 1; and Toronto 5, Vancouver Canucks 5.

Power-play goals by Stan Mikita and Alain Daigle and a shorthanded goal by Dennis Hull gave the Hawks the win over the Scouts.

The Flyers, who have won the Stanley Cup the last two years, came out hitting against the Bruins—and lost.

That's the way they play," said Boston coach Don Cherry when asked about a brawling first period. "They're not going to change their style for anyone, but we held our own with them."

But Philadelphia coach Fred Shero said "We don't go looking for fights."

"Fights just happen when two people come into contact," he said. "Players test each other. Then it boils over and erupts. But everything settles down after a couple of fights."

The Flyers tried to belt everyone within range. They were playing with Bobby Clarke sidelined with an injury and several others nursing a virus.

Brad Park and Wayne Cashman scored power-play goals and Don Marcotte made it 3-0 for the Bruins shortly after Philadelphia returned to full strength late in the first period. Cashman's goal came while the Flyers played a man short for five minutes.

The Flyers narrowed the gap to 3-2 on goals by Bill Barber and Mel Bridgman in the second period. However, Jean Ratelle—who also picked up two assists—pulled Boston from danger with a shorthanded goal in the final seconds of the period.

Guy Lafleur scored two goals, the second at 4:09 of the third period, to give the Canadiens their tie with the Wings.

The Canadiens, who have lost only once in their last 22 games, went in front quickly in the opening period on goals by Lafleur at 2:22 and Mario Tremblay at 12:12.

But Detroit rallied on a goal by Dan Maloney at 12:54 and took a 3-2 lead on second-period goals by Buster Harvey and defenceman Rick Lapointe.

The Kings have some ideas on what's wrong with the Rangers.

"They should get tough and stop feeling sorry for themselves," said ex-Ranger defenceman Sheldon Kannegeisser, now with the Kings.

"We just buzzed around and they let us cruise in front of the goal, that's why we got those rebounds," said Don Kozak, who scored one goal and assisted on the other three in his team's win over the Rangers.

Vic Venasky scored twice for the Kings.

It was the sixth consecutive winless game for the Rangers, who have an 0-5-1 mark since winning their first two contests under new coach John Ferguson.

Jerry Korab and Craig Ramsay scored 19 seconds apart mid-way through the the final period to give the Sabres their win over the Blues.

Claude Larose tied the score for the Blues early in the third period after the Sabres had taken a 2-1 lead in the first period on Danny Gare's 29th and 30th goals of the season.

Wayne Merrick scored three goals to give the Seals their victory over the Leafs.

The Seals trailed twice in the first period, but took a 4-2 lead when Al MacAdam scored once and Merrick twice in less than three minutes.

Cougars Romp Over Cents But Can't Handle Chiefs

Cougars dropped a 7-3 decision to the Chiefs in Kamloops on Sunday after recording a 10-6 victory over Calgary Centennials before 2,818 fans Saturday in Memorial Arena.

Al Hill connected after only 39 seconds Sunday to put Victoria ahead but Chiefs stormed back to take a 3-2 lead into the second period and a 4-2 advantage going into the final frame.

Ryan Walter, Darryl Ferner, Don Moores, Jamie Gallimore, Dave Hatheway, Reg Kerr and Rob Flockhart scored single goals for Kamloops while Tim Williams and Mike Hill fired the other Victoria goals.

Victoria players were assessed 13 of the 22 minor penalties and two of the three majors handed out by referee Al Paradise.

Jeff McDill was the victim in one encounter during the first period and will be wearing a face mask to protect a broken nose during the next few weeks.

On Saturday, Bannerman finished with 44 saves, including 17 in the first period while Jerry Pace, who was injured midway through the second period, made 20 saves before being replaced in the Calgary net by Gerry Perrault, who blocked 18 shots.

In other games Sunday, Edmonton Oil Kings dropped Medicine Hat Tigers 6-4 before 9,548 Edmonton fans, the largest regular season crowd ever to attend a league game; New Westminster Bruins shackled visiting Calgary Centennials 8-0; Saskatoon Blades salvaged a 2-2 deadlock with host Lethbridge Broncos and Winnipeg Clubs fought back to gain a 1-1 tie with visiting Regina Pats.

Elsewhere Saturday, Flin Flon Bombers bounced Winnipeg 7-4 and Saskatoon edged Medicine Hat, 5-4.

Pro Bowl Bare-Bones Offences To Test Simplified Defences

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The National Football League Pro Bowl pits stripped-down, barebones offences against simplified defences tonight in a test that offes little more than a look at the world's best football players.

Coach John Madden and his American Conference squad have been installed one-touchdown favorites over Chuck Knox's National Conference.

Any momentum — and most of the drama — ended a week ago when Pittsburgh Steelers beat Dallas Cowboys 21-17 in the Super Bowl to end the regular season. Team unity would be difficult to create — under the best of circumstances — in five-on-field practice sessions and an equal number of team meetings.

Circumstances were not the best. All week long the threat of a possible boycott of the game hung over preparations for the contest.

Members of the NFL Players' Association were upset that no pension payments had been made by the league since the union's contract expired. A boycott was talked about as a possible move to dramatize the discontent.

But the players decided against such a move Thursday.

"I didn't hear any talk of a strike out here," said Madden, gesturing at his squad as it limbered up for practice. "We had several team meetings, and nobody talked about that."

Knox also denied that the talk of a boycott hindered preparations.

"All of these people have the ability to concentrate. It's what I call 'fine focus.' They have that ability, or they wouldn't be here," he said.

While the strike talk may not have harmed practices, it did put a dent in anticipated attendance. Henry Simonaeux, who is in charge of ticket sales for the game, asid he expects no more than 35,000.

Simoneaux said 21,000 tickets were sold before reports of a possible boycott began circulating.

Jim Hart of St. Louis Cardinals is scheduled to start at quarterback for the NFC, with the Cards' Terry Metcalf and Chuck Foreman of the Minnesota Vikings at running back.

The AFC has defensive stars such as "Mean Joe" Greene and L. C. Greenwood of the world champion Pittsburgh team and Jerry Sherk of the Cleveland Browns in its lineup.

Special Pro Bowl rules limit the squads to the standard 4-3 defensive alignment, with no sophisticated stunting by linemen, and only limited blitzing by line backers. The secondaries are also required to use the most fundamental coverages.

Because the teams are assembled from throughout the league, the coaches strip fancy patterns from their playbooks and concentrate on basics.

Griff Fires Four

CHEMAINUS — Dave Griff blasted in four goals Saturday night to help Chemainus Blues to an 8-4 victory over Victoria Western Homes, Buckaroos in a Big Six Hockey League game at Fuller Lake Arena.

Bob Wilson added two goals for Blues and singles were fired by Greg Gow and Brad Stevenson.

WIDNES WINS FINAL

LEEDS, England (Reuter) — Widnes beat Hull 19-13 Saturday to win the final of the Rugby League Players No. 6 competition.

CANADIANS GAIN FINAL

MANHATTAN BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Canada swept three singles matches against the United States and split two doubles matches Sunday afternoon to take a 6-3 victory in Thomas Cup badminton zone play here. The U.S. and Canada began the second and final day of competition tied 2-2, but singles victories by Wayne Macdonnell of Vancouver, Jamie McKee of Toronto and Mike Epstein of Vancouver locked up the zone semi-finals for the Canadians.

MacDonald defeated Mike Walker of the U.S., 15-8, 15-6; McKee downed Charles Coakley, 13-15, 15-3, 15-5: then Epstein ended the American's hopes with a 10-15, 15-6, 15-4 victory.

The doubles team of Bob Dickey and Gary Higgins provided the only U.S. victory of the day with a 15-8, 15-12 triumph over Dave Gibson and McKee. Earlier, Raphi Kanchanaraphi and Channarong Ratanasaengsung gave Canada its final victory, a 15-5, 15-10 decision over Jim Poole and Mike Walker.

The victory puts Canada into the zone final against Mexico in Mexico City next month. The winner there will advance to the world semi-finals in Thailand in May, with hopes of making the final in Indonesia this summer.

Sylvia Fans Golden Hopes

MADONNA DI CAMPIGLIO, Italy (AP) — United States speed skaters dominated the events Sunday at the end of a three-day international competition, a warmup for the Innsbruck Olympics, but Sylvia Burka of Winnipeg kept Canada's hopes high with a gold medal effort.

Miss Burka won the Sportivi Ghiaccio Trophy 3,000-metre race for women in four minutes 50.27 seconds. Nancy Swider of the U.S. was second in 4:58.29 and American Kim Kostro third in 4:59.36.

The Soviet and Swedish teams, considered strong opponents, did not participate.

Mike Woods of the U.S. won the 1,500-metre race for senior and junior entries with a time of 3:00.52 and Dutchman Jan Derksen won the 5,000-metre race in 7:20.41.

In the combined final women's standings after two races, Miss Burka was first with 182.078 points. She was followed by Americans Sheila Young (184.452) and Leah Poulos (186.237).

Cathy Priestner of Calgary placed second behind Leah Poulos in the women's 1,000-metre speed skating event Saturday with a time of 1:26.53.

Third was Miss Young and Miss Burka finished fourth in 1:28.04.

Peter Muller of the U.S. won the men's 1,000 metres in 1:18.30 while Tom Overend of Abbotsford, B.C., placed fourth in 1:22.00, Cam Tipping of Edmonton was 10th in 1:24.53 and Jim Reyy of Winnipeg was 11th in 1:26.29.

American Dan Immerfall, second in the 1,000, won the 500 metres in 39.21 seconds with Muller second. Overend placed fourth in 40.52 and Tipping was seventh in 41.50.

Crenshaw Rebounds For Crosby Victory

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — There was Ben Crenshaw, once again happily restored to the bright promise of his amateur years.

There was Jack Nicklaus, shrugging philosophically and then, almost in a comedy act, patting his pockets in a vain and futile search for a passport.

This emerged Sunday from the confusing and dramatic windup to the $185,000 Bing Crosby National pro-am golf tournament.

"I'm the only guy in the world making a comeback at 24," Crenshaw said after his three-under-par 69 had staked him to a two-stroke victory, a triumph that ended almost three years of frustration for the young man who hit the game with the gaudiest credentials and the most impressive start in decades—only to follow with a fall to mediocrity.

"I don't have it happen very often, but I had it happen to me today," Nicklaus said after an all-but-incredible last-round 82—one of the highest rounds of his competitive career.

"It happened," he said before boarding a helicopter to San Francisco to make connections with a jet for a business trip to Tokyo. That's when he started his pocket-patting routine. A look of almost comic dismay crossed his face.

"I just remembered," he said. "I don't have a passport. That tops it."

He started the bright, sunny day in first place. He was playing Pebble Beach, one of his favorite courses. He appeared in commanding position to win his fourth Crosby title.

But things started going badly almost immediately and he bogeyed the first hole. Then they went from bad to worse. And from worse to unbelievable.

He played his back nine in 45. He had a double bogey and two triple bogeys. He hit his ball into pine forests. He hit it over the craggy cliffs of the Monterey Peninsula. He plugged it under the lips of the yawning bunkers. He got it in the water of what Pebble Beach calls a lateral hazard and most people call the Pacific Ocean. He three-putted.

BEN CRENSHAW
. . . victory smile

Television cameras cut away before he finished slashing his way—with new clubs—to an eight on the final hole.

"It got to be comical," Nicklaus said. "I started laughing. What can you do about it?"

From a one-shot lead starting the day, he went to a 291 total, three over par and 10 behind Crenshaw.

Crenshaw started the day three shots back, made up most of it on the front nine and took the lead for good with a 35-foot birdie putt on the 12th hole.

It was his first victory since the San Antonio-Texas Open of 1973, his first start as a full-fledged member of the tour. He's been in contention countless times since, but another title eluded him.

Celtics Quick to Learn, Give Braves Hoop Lesson

By The Associated Press

Red Auerbach, president and general manager of Boston Celtics, has taped some basketball lessons which are being aired at halftime of National Basketball Association telecasts this season, and perhaps Buffalo Braves should have been watching.

Then again, Auerbach's players conducted a clinic of their own in the 48 minutes surrounding halftime on Sunday, and that sure didn't help the Braves any.

"They beat us in every phase of the game—they beat us to death," said Buffalo coach Jack Ramsay after the Celtics whipped the Braves 135-107.

"We got off to a real good start, and then we really didn't have any let-ups," said Boston captain John Havlicek, who played in the 1,077th game of his career, tying Portland coach Len Wilkens for second on the all-time list behind Hal Greer's 1,122.

Charlie Scott led Boston's rout with 30 points, playing what Celtics coach Tom Heinsohn called "his best game for us." Five other Boston players scored in double figures as the Celtics' running game proved too much for the Braves to contain.

Dave Cowens and Glenn McDonald added 18 points each for Boston, Jo Jo White and Steve Kuberski had 14 each and Havlicek 12. Bob McAdoo had 27 points for Buffalo, which had a six-game winning streak snapped.

In other games, Kansas City Kings beat Chicago Bulls 118-110, Philadelphia '76ers edged Atlanta Hawks 112-109 and Washington Bullets beat Los Angeles Lakers 105-101.

In American Basketball Association games, San Antonio Spurs downed New York Nets 128-104, Spirits of St. Louis defeated Virginia Squires 121-100 and Kentucky Colonels edged Indiana Pacers 117-114.

In NBA games Saturday, Cleveland Cavaliers whipped Milwaukee Bucks 132-89, Houston Rockets beat Seattle SuperSonics 110-103, New York Knicks defeated Detroit Pistons 117-100, Philadelphia beat Atlanta 130-116, Portland Trailblazers edged Golden State Warriors 125-123 and Washington Bullets downed Phoenix Suns 100-84.

Schetterer, Evans On Wrestling Team

Two members of the Victoria Wrestling Club have earned places on the Western Canada team that will compete next weekend at Vancouver in the Pacific Rim Competition.

Rolf Schetterer and Terry Evans were selected to the Canadian squad, after impressive performances in the provincial age-group wrestling championships that ended Saturday at Coquitlam.

Schetterer, 15, captured first place in the heavyweight division and Evans, 17, took second place in the 136-pound division.

Other medal winners from the Victoria club, coached by Ed Ashmore, were Frederick Schetterer, 14, third in the 168-pound section, and Balrag Beol, 15, third in the 142-pound class.

3,000TH WIN FOR DITTFACH

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jockey Hugo Dittfach of Toronto won the 3000th race of his career Saturday with a victory in the seventh race at Turf Paradise.

Dittfach, a German-born regular on the Ontario Jockey Club circuit, rode Ruler's Mate to victory.

Aussies Aggressive

ADELAIDE, Australia (Reuter) — Australia produced some aggressive batting to hold an over-all lead of 446 over the West Indies at the close of the third day of the fifth cricket test today.

Spearheaded by opener Alan Turner's dominant innings of 136, Australia was 302 for four in its second innings at stumps.

The West Indies hopes of reducing Australia's first-innings lead slumped when Lance Gibbs was bowled by Gary Gilmour with the second ball of the day and the touring team was all out for 274, without adding to its overnight total.

An impressive opening stand of 148 between Turner and Ian Redpath (65) paved the way for another confident display by the Australian batsmen.

Tartan Champs

Martin Takes Tartan

Flora Martin skipped her Victoria Curling Club rink to victory over Merle Hays of the host club in the "A" event final of the annual Tartan women's curling bonspiel at the Racquet Club of Victoria on Sunday.

Audrey Webb of Playland won the "B" event over Phyl Bird of Victoria; Noreen Gudbranson's UVic quartet won the "C" event over Audrey Duff of the Racquet Club and Fernande Hawkes of the Racquet Club took "D" laurels over clubmate Helen Garraway.

Prize winners:

"A" EVENT

1. Flora Martin, Elsie Humphrey, Doreen Baker, Marie Swanton (VCC).
2. Merle Hays, Gwen Walker, Barb Crisp, Barb Gibson (RCV).
3. Irene Horne, Ann Thow, Olive Mazar, Mary Low (RCV).

Falkins, Gamble Qualify For Island School Final

Falkins beat Chuck Bown of Esquimalt on the last rock to earn the right to join Vic Gamble's Cowichan foursome, which won the "A" event Saturday, in the Island playdown to produce an entry for the B.C. championship at Victoria Curling Club, Feb. 12-14.

Falkins beat John McGowan of Cedar Hill in the "B" event semi-finals Sunday morning while Bown gained another chance by topping Foster.

Indoor Record

EAST BERLIN (Reuter) — Eugen Ray of East Germany bettered his own world indoor record for the 100-metre dash Sunday, clocking 10.16 seconds in the national championships to slice five-hundredths of a second off the previous mark.

Swiss Miss Rated Olympic Favorite

KRANJSKA GORA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Lise-Marie Morerod of Switzerland, considered the top woman's slalom racer in the world, won a World Cup special slalom race today, the final one before Winter Olympic Games.

Miss Morerod, a daredevil 19-year-old racer who also won Sunday's World Cup giant slalom, now is considered the favorite for top honors at the Innsbruck Games.

She finished third in the first of the two runs over the course, which wound its way through 60 gates while dropping 150 metres. Then she zipped through a 57-gate course in superb time in the second run, being clocked in a total time of 101.25 seconds.

There were 76 entries but only 30 finished the race. Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany, the leader of the World Cup standings, finished second with a combined time of 102.27 seconds.

Miss Mittemaier was also second in Sunday's special slalom.

Miss Morerod was third in the standings before the women came to Yugoslavia. Her double victory moved her into second place.

Gallaugher, MacRae Take Consols Berths

Rinks skipped by Bob Gallaugher of Playland Curling Club and Craig MacRae of Nanaimo will represent the Island in the Pacific Coast Curling playdowns at Victoria Club, Feb. 13-15.

Gallaugher won the second Island berth on Sunday at the Nanaimo club with a clutch last-shot against veteran Glen Harper of Duncan to take a 10-9 decision.

Earlier in the day Harper had beaten Moe Hill of Playland, by the slimmest of margins, a measurement in the 13th end for a 9-8 victory.

MacRae won his berth on Saturday by scoring two extra-end victories, both by a 9-8 score, over Harper and Gallaugher.

The Harper-Gallaugher battle Sunday was just that, reaching the climax in the 12th with Harper holding a one-shot lead. Gallaugher managed to get a rock to the back of the four-foot and partially covered. But Harper, on his last stone, drew the button. With many rocks in play there was just enough room for Gallaugher to follow Harper in, which he did, tapping him back to count two and get the win.

Gallaugher last represented the Island in the PCCA event two years ago. The other members of his rink are third Barry Harvey, second Ken Wark and lead Ken Lawter.

In the Harper-Hill cliff-hanger, Hill had the hammer in the extra end but his final rock curled barely a quarter of an inch too far and Harper won the measurement.

Earlier in the eight-rink competition, Gallauger defeated Norm Thiessen of Nanaimo and Mark Ivezieh of Port Alberni. MacRae's first round victim was Tim Horrigan of Victoria Club. Hill then eliminated Horrigan and Thiessen eliminated the other up-Island rink, Pat Horning of Courtenay.

In MacRae's "A" final victory over Gallaugher, the Nanaimo skip tied the score on the 12th and won with a steal on the 13th. He came around a guard to angle freeze on what had been shot rock and Gallaugher couldn't change things around.

MacRae is the son of Don MacRae, who a few years ago skipped a Nanaimo rink to the Canadian Seniors championship. Gordon Koster, the third, is the son of Gene Koster, who played third on the seniors rink; and Rick Neff and Murray Norby, at second and lead, respectively, were skip and third of the Nanaimo rink that was runner-up for the schoolboy championship in 1972.

Tom Dickson, manager of the Nanaimo Curling Club, and former manager of the Victoria Club, said "I know we are sending two fine young rinks into the Pacific Coast finals. Not only are they fine curlers, but they are also gentlemen."

Sparkes, Wood In PCAA Final

Bernie Sparkes will be seeking an eighth appearance in the Brier curling championship when he leads his rink into the Pacific Coast Curling Association title meet at Victoria Curling Club, Feb. 13-15. Garnet Campbell holds the record of 10.

Sparkes won six straight games in zone three playdowns at Vancouver on the weekend defeating youthful Randy Chambers of Vancouver Club, 8-4, in the "A" final.

Dr. Vic Wood won the second berth with an 11-4 win over Lyall Craig of Squamish.

'76 Maverick
6-cylinder Automatic

The '76 Ford Motor Company cars are No. 1 in fuel economy among the Big 3 auto makers.
The U.S. Environment Protection Agency (EPA) has tested the 1976 cars and the results for the Big 3 auto makers (Ford, GM and Chrysler) show that FORD MOTOR COMPANY cars have the highest average City Highway miles per gallon rating.
U.S. EPA standardized test results (sales weighted have been and are being used by automotive manufacturers for fuel economy statements. Such tests are performed on a dynamometer to simulate city and highway driving and results have been converted to imperial gallons. While EPA tests are useful for comparative purposes they may not be duplicated in actual driving. The gas mileage you get depends on your type of driving — your driving habits — load and care equipment — road and weather conditions — and how your car is maintained.
Engineering refinements to the 1976 Ford car lines have resulted in a dramatic increase in fuel economy and improved drivability in terms of easier starting, better stop-and-go response and smoother acceleration. In addition there are optional engines that run on lower priced gasoline that's readily available anywhere.

Bernier Goal Sinks Oilers

By The Canadian Press

Serge Bernier's second goal, with 35 seconds left in the third period, lifted Quebec to a 7-6 victory over Edmonton Oilers in a World Hockey Association game Sunday night that Nordiques general manager Maurice Filion said was an exercise in giveaways.

"The whole thing just had to come down to a flip of the coin," said Filion after his club erased a 6-4 final-period deficit. "A game like that is a fantastic show, beautiful to watch, but for Edmonton it was a heartbreaker."

In other games, Houston Aeros downed Calgary Cowboys 5-3, Minnesota Fighting Saints dropped Toronto Toros 5-2, Phoenix Roadrunners outlasted San Diego Mariners 7-5 and Indianapolis Racers tripped Cleveland Crusaders 4-2.

In games Saturday, Cincinnati Stingers beat New England Whalers 6-3 and San Diego turned back Toronto 6-4.

The Nordiques rally began when Bernier's power-play goal at 3:56 of the third period narrowed the gap to 6-5. Marc Tardif scored his second goal of the game and 40th of the season, high in the league, at 6:19.

Real Cloutier also scored twice for the winners, and Jean Claude Tremblay had one. Veteran centre Norm Ullman scored three goals for the Oilers, who got two from Tim Sheehy and one from Rick Morris.

The victory moved the Nordiques, who have two games in hand, within six points of first place Winnipeg Jets in the Canadian Division. The Oilers are fourth place.

Third-place Calgary stalled when Frank Hughes scored two power-play goals to lead the Aeros to their come-from-behind triumph at Houston.

John Schella, Mark Howe and Rick Preston also scored for the Aeros, who beat Calgary 2-0 Friday night.

The Toros remained five points behind Edmonton as Mike Walton scored one goal and set up two to pace the Saints at St. Paul. Ted Hampson, Henry Boucha, John McKenzie and Mike Antonovich also scored for the winners, while Gavin Kirk and Tom Simpson hit for Toronto.

USE THE GOVERNMENT'S OWN RULES TO SAVE A BUNDLE ON INCOME TAX.
TAX SAVINGS OPPORTUNITY #1.
Many people are eligible for this tax savings opportunity so there should be smiles-a-plenty. Husbands where the family home is in their wife's name. Income earning wives where the family home is in their husband's name. And all apartment dwellers and others who don't own a home.
This tax savings opportunity is called a Canada Trust Home Ownership Savings Plan and the money you deposit in this Plan is tax free if you eventually use it to buy a home or home furnishings (a cottage may also qualify). An individual making around $10,000 could realize yearly tax savings of $300. As well, the money deposited to the Plan earns good interest.
You can find out about the Canada Trust Home Ownership Savings Plan through a handy booklet available at our branches. But hurry, you'll have to act now to save on '75 income tax.
TAX SAVINGS OPPORTUNITY #2.
If you're a wage earner you can start smiling because a Canada Trust Retirement Savings Plan can probably save you a bundle on income tax while you sock away money for the future.
Say, for example you're married with two dependent children and make around $15,000: you could save as much as $1,000 on '75 income tax. And if both husband and wife are income earners, both can set up a Plan.
Short of cash? We can probably help you start a Plan and get your deduction against '75 income tax with a Canada Trust "Retirement Savings Loan". In most cases it can be arranged right on the spot and with no red tape.
Even if you're already in a pension plan at work, it makes sense to take advantage of this tax saving since a company pension may not be enough to guarantee you a comfortable retirement on its own.
With a Canada Trust Retirement Savings Plan there's no sales commission to pay and your money isn't locked in forever. In fact, should you decide to forget the whole thing, you can get your money out. (But if you do, you'll have to pay the appropriate income tax.)
We also have a handy booklet explaining all about the Canada Trust Retirement Savings Plan. Call or drop in and get the details. But, as with tax savings opportunity #1, you'll have to act now to save on '75 income tax.

MARK TRAIL

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

When the following deal arose in a top-echelon team-of-four championship some years ago, both North-South pairs arrived at a small slam contract via the identical sequence of bidding. Both South declarers had to guess how to play the trump suit, with nothing to guide either of them. Yet they each came up with the winning solution. When I subsequently asked both of them how come they played the trump suit as they did, all I received in response was a shrug of the shoulders, as if to say: "I really don't know."

NORTH

SOUTH
♠ K Q 8
♡ K 9 8 4 3
◇ J 5
♣ J 9 5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♣	Pass
6 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣.

Each of the South declarers made the winning decision to rebid three hearts, rather than three notrump, making it easier for North to push on to the slam. Actually, even if South had rebid three notrump, North probably would have driven on to a slam.

West's spade opening lead was captured perforce by dummy's ace. The only problem was how to handle the trump suit. If the four outstanding trumps were divided 2-2, it didn't matter what South did. In this presumed setup, the king and queen would gather in the trumps with the loss of only one trick to the defender's ace. Both South declarers appreciated that the four missing trumps, mathematically, figured to be divided 3-1.

The normal play would have been to lead a low trump off dummy at trick two and put up the king. Had this been done, the slam contract would have been defeated, for East would now have a second trump trick with his jack.

But, for some unknown reason, both South declarers, at trick two, led the seven of diamonds and won the trick with the jack. Next came a low trump out of the South hand, West being compelled to play the ace. It now became a routine matter for the queen and king of trumps to pick up East's jack and ten.

It could have been, of course, that East had the singleton ace, with West holding the J-10-x, in which case the slam would have been defeated by making the initial trump lead from the South hand. But on this given day the latter was the winning play.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By SYDNEY OMARR

Astrological Forecast for Tuesday, Jan. 27

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Hold off on journeys if practical. Accent on failure to make proper preparations, reservations. Relatives may be in mood to do battle. Be sure of instructions, calls, messages, quotations. Avoid scattering forces or taking too much for granted.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Dig deep, peel away surface superficialities. See as is, not merely as you have been told to see or would like to see. Means get facts concerning love and money. Avoid partnership commitment until cards are on table — face up.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Study Aries message. Don't trust too much in communications, calls, messages. You may have to "hand deliver" pertinent information. Finish project. Expand base of operations. Deal with Aries, Libra.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): New light thrown on areas obscured by secrets, mystery. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. A "secret" is activated. You learn what is required for advancement, progress. One who pulls strings is inclined to see things your way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Involvement indicated — nothing will be halfway. It is all the way — and if you expect mild reactions, relationships you could be mistaken. Aquarian figures prominently. Intuition is sharp — follow through on hunch.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Changes occur within family circle. Gemini, Sagittarius persons figure prominently. Accent on finishing a project without severing important relationship. You could be walking fine line. Money is involved and so are emotions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Trips, messages, calls could be misinterpreted. Know it and be aware of fine points, details. Read between the lines; detect subtle hints. Aquarius, Taurus and Leo could be in picture. Accent on relatives with axe to grind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be ready for change of scenery, a variety of experiences — and answers to pertinent questions. Accent on financial status, valuables, personal possessions, the settlement of debt. Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius figure prominently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lunar cycle is such that you successfully meet challenges, overcome opposition — and win allies. Accent on personality, personal appearance, a fresh start and proverbial second chance. A partnership requires review.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friends may be explosive and act in controversial manner. Older individual, somewhat bitter, wants to rock boat. Maintain your own equilibrium. Refuse to be shaken by promises, rumors. Stand pat on insistence on facts and figures.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You complete assignment, project which draws to you commendation of professional superior. Be gracious without kicking toe in sand. Aries, Libra could be in picture. Your ultimate goal comes into focus. You face truth and it could make you strong.

IF JAN. 27 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are unique, fiery, idealistic, a "practical visionary." Aries, Libra persons play important roles in your life. February and November should be your most significant months of 1976. Domestic adjustment or residence change could be featured, especially in September.

LECTURES SLATED AT ART GALLERY

Two lecture events have been scheduled this week at Victoria Art Gallery, 1040 Moss.

On Tuesday the lecturer will be noted Victoria artist Pat Martin Bates who will speak on the history and techniques of printmaking.

An associate professor of graphics at UVic, Ms. Bates has gained an international reputation for the quality of her prints which are regularly exhibited throughout North America and abroad.

Ian Wallace, an expert in the historical development of modern art, will give a lecture on Wednesday on Mallarme and Modernism.

He will discuss Mallarme's poem, Un Coup de Des on the basis on its "purely visual qualities" and embellish it with a look at the poet's artistic contemporaries, notably the painter, Manet.

Both lectures will be at 2 p.m. and there is no admission charge for either.

American Bounty Still Being Felt In North Vietnam

HONG KONG (NYT) — Although the last American PX in Vietnam was closed in April, the impact of its bounty is still being felt — but now in North Vietnam.

According to recent travellers to Hanoi, Scotch whisky, perfume and Japanese radios that once lined the post exchange's shelves are being sold in markets in the North Vietnamese capital. They were apparently taken there by Northerners who snapped them up on the black market in Saigon. Such luxury items have not been seen in Spartan Hanoi for years.

Incongruously, other relics of the American presence have turned up in Hanoi. Foreigners have sighted many of the Ford and Chevrolet sedans, still bearing South Vietnamese licence plates, that were once driven by employees of the U.S. embassy or the Agency for International Development.

In addition, the North Vietnamese in Saigon are reported to have packed up a well-equipped Seventh-day Adventist hospital — originally the United States Army Third Field Hospital — a textile mill and large quantities of South Vietnamese rice for shipment north.

Redistribution of property is only a small part of the reunification process that has been taking place over the past eight months, almost all of it apparently directed from Hanoi.

Le Thann Nghi, North Vietnamese deputy premier, told a meeting of the national assembly recently that "tens of thousands" of North Vietnamese "have been dispatched to work in the provinces of South Vietnam."

Among them are officials ranging from Pham Hung, the fourth-ranking member of the North Vietnamese Politburo, through economic planners and security specialsits to customs agents. A recent Western visitor to Saigon was surprised to recognize a customs inspector from Hanoi at Tan Son Nhut Airport.

Exactly why Hanoi has sent so many people south is a matter of conjecture. Perhaps, as American officials insisted during the war, the indigenous southern Communists were not so numerous after all and depended on the North. Or perhaps, in a continuation of traditional Vietnamese regional rivalries, the Northerners simply do not trust their southern compatriots.

An Asian businessman who left Saigon recently on a French-sponsored refugee flight reported that there were two types of policemen there: "those with guns are Northerners, those without are Southerners." moreover, he said, there are still eight to 10 North Vietnamese army divisions in the Saigon area, exactly the same number as at the end of the war.

Another possible factor in North Vietnam's policy is that since the 1954 division of the country at Geneva, the Communist movement, by geographical accident, has been directed from Hanoi. Thus Hung, the senior Communist official in Saigon since the war, is a native of the Mekong Delta but a North Vietnamese party leader.

Saigon and Hanoi have announced that political unification will follow national assembly elections next April. The assembly will draw up a constitution, and a government is to be formed by the end of June, with Hanoi apparently as the capital.

The National Liberation Front is to be subsumed then into the largely powerless Vietnam Fatherland Front, a broad North Vietnamese political organization.

The overwhelming fact of life in Saigon over the last eight months has apparently been the steady decline in its standard of living.

With the entire South Vietnamese army and much of the former civil service disbanded, and with imported raw materials for the few factories in short supply, jobs have simply disappeared. The new Communist authorities have made such vital items as rice and milk available at state ration stores, but prices have continued to climb.

Economic difficulties may be one explanation for reports of continued armed resistance in South Vietnam. The reports, at best fragmentary and second hand, indicate that it is concentrated in the Central Highlands around the Montagnard center of Ban Me Thuot, in Darlac Province, and in the Mekong Delta.

American intelligence specialists who still follow Vietnam reason that many of those continuing to resist the Communists may be desperate people who see little alternative, though in some cases they may be little more than bandits. In the highlands, where the Montagnards have traditionally been hostile to the Vietnamese, there may also be an ethnic element.

Most analysts believe that the resistance, lacking guns and ammunition, has little chance of being anything more than an annoyance.

Black Man Beaten

KRUGERSDORP, South Africa (Reuter) — A white man here has been sentenced to eight strokes of the cane for beating up a black African.

Johann McIntyre, 19, had pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault, but passing sentence Tuesday the magistrate said there was evidence that the accused had said to his friends. "I'll show you how to beat up a kaffir."

The court heard that when the African, Joseph Motsitshue, went into a village cafe, the accused kicked him in the stomach and hit him in the face and chest.

SUB'S NEW WARHEAD EQUALS 60 A-BOMBS

BREST, France (AP) — France armed the atomic-powered submarine Le Redoutable on Saturday with a thermonuclear warhead equal to the strength of a million tons of TNT, or 60 times stronger than the atomic bomb which destroyed Hiroshima.

The arming ceremony was presided over by Defence Minister Yvon Bourges, who called the date "an important one for our country."

French A-subs until now have carried ballistics missiles about half as powerful as the new weapon. The missile range of about 1,875 miles is unchanged, however. Three French nuclear-powered submarines are operational, with three more planned by 1982.

The Pentagon in Washington refuses to reveal the blast power of United States missile warheads, saying it is a military secret.

Pensions for Homemakers High on Priorities

Inclusion of the homemaker in the Canada Pension Plan ranks high on the federal advisory council on the Status of Women's 1976 priority list.

Victoria's Norie Preston, one of two British Columbia women on that council, says top priority has been given to federal human rights legislation, followed by the homemaker in the CPP.

Other priorities include removal of abortion from the Criminal Code; equal rights for women in the workplace; division of matrimonial property and related issues, birth planning information and services and the status of Indian women.

Back from Ottawa where the first general meeting of the ACSW for this year was held, January 12 to 14, Mrs. Preston explains there are two distinct aspects to the problem of housewives in the Canada Pension Plan.

First is equality for women within marriage, and second equality for women within the economy.

Also, in both these aspects, that "independent economic security for women is dependent on new governmental policies."

A background paper, prepared by council vice-president June Menzies, suggested the proposal to admit housewives to the CPP, through general splitting, deals with the first aspect — equality within marriage.

This would protect the social security rights of women by requiring spouses to share in the loss of social security benefits suffered by women when they leave the labor market to undertake work in the home.

On the other hand, Norie Preston points out the splitting principle does not deal with the provision of social security for women because of the unpaid work they do through home, child, dependent care.

This, she says, is the second aspect of women and the Canada Pension Plan — equality within the economy.

A British Columbia proposal included in the Menzies' paper attempted to deal with the issue of extending security to individuals whose economically productive work does not take place within the market economy.

It pointed up the inadequacy of the social security system — and the economy — in dealing with the economically productive unpaid work of women.

"It is the unpaid work of women that is the central issue to be faced if we are to develop social and taxation policies appropriate to a society free from discrimination," Mrs. Preston believes.

The Menzies' paper recommended that immediate action be taken on splitting pension credits between spouses to achieve and establish a right by both spouses to a share of the security built up by the union.

Also that great urgency be given to studies to determine the relationship between the unpaid economically productive work of homemakers and the market economy with a view to obtaining concrete data on the economic value of work outside the labor market.

Immediate tabling of the proposed human rights legislation (Bill C-72) including establishment of a Human Rights Commission, was also urged by the council.

Based on the over-all goal of full integration of women into Canadian society it was decided there are "four broad fronts of concentration which must be addressed to ensure that such integration is achieved."

These are labor force integration including upward mobility and equal and just pay; access to political powers; stereotyping and attitudinal change and recognition of the economic rights of the homemaker.

"We based this overview analysis of the proposed human rights commission on these four priority needs and the various related roles and functions," Mrs. Preston reports.

"Each of these priority issues will be examined in turn, looking at the more crucial types of action required, followed by an assessment of relevant roles for a human rights commission."

A study paper presented at the meeting said the predominance of male appointments to Canadian agencies within the federal government cannot be justified.

Data obtained in mid-1975 shows that men constituted 87 per cent of federal appointments, while women made up 13 per cent.

Although these figures reflected an increase of three per cent in the number of female appointments since 1975, Norie says "we were not satisfied with this very small increase."

"We learned that in 1975, out of a total of 121 crown corporations, boards, commissions, councils and other agencies which deal with all aspects of Canadian life, women were equally or over-represented on only three.

"There are only four councils on which women are highly represented, the Advisory Council on the Status of Women, the National Council of Welfare, the Canadian Consumer Council and the Advisory Council on Fitness and Amateur Sport.

"In all other organizations, boards, commissions and corporations, female participation falls to six per cent."

Council members took time to look at their budget for 1976. And although they will receive the same amount of money as last year ($480,000) it was decided "with an expected 10 per cent inflation rate" to chop off one of the four scheduled meetings for the year and to trim an independent research allotment.

Next council meeting will be in May. There will not be another until the end of summer.

A Good Year For Clinic

Details of a successful year have been reported in the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the G. R. Pearkes Clinic.

The organization raised a total of $22,592 during the year, of which more than $13,000 was disbursed in services to the clinic and its patients.

Principal sources of income have been sale of lottery tickets and bazaars for which many items were made by members.

Poison Flour Killed 13

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — Thirteen persons, including eight children, died on the weekend in St. Thomas after eating food containing contaminated flour.

Six other persons died in the month in the same town, apparently from the same cause.

Pregnant? Don't Smoke

QUEBEC (CP) — Research conducted in England by a Canadian doctor has proven conclusively that smoking during pregnancy is harmful to unborn babies, a medical symposium was told Thursday.

Dr. Frank Manning, now at the University of Southern California said his research proves for the first time that nicotine intake affects fetal breathing and growth.

Dr. Manning said his tests show nicotine causes a decrease in the mother's uterine blood flow, thereby lowering the fetal oxygen contact.

The oxygen deficiency in the fetus impairs proper cell growth and may have an adverse effect on the mental development of the child after birth, he said.

Dr. Manning conducted the tests in Oxford, England, at the Nuffield Institute for Medical Research.

The symposium was held during the annual meeting of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada in conjunction with the Canadian Society for Clinical Investigation.

Dr. Salter, surgeon-in-chief at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children, succeeds Dr. K. J. R. Wightman and will begin a two-year term following the annual meeting of the college which ends Saturday.

HILDA BEASTALL

Apples, like other stored fruits and vegetables, do not keep indefinitely at their highest flavor and texture. Already hints of deterioration are noticeable in both home stored garden-grown apples and in bought commercial varieties. Skins are becoming tough and the fresh juiciness of mature apples less noticeable.

With supplies still available it is only sensible to use the apples while they are good. Here are a few ideas not requiring complete recipes:

To extend ground beef in meat loaf, meat balls or in homemade pizza pies. Add 2 cups chopped apple with onion and celery to ¾ pound ground beef and the usual ingredients of oat flakes or wheat flakes and herbs.

To make a more nutritious Cake Topping or icing: Add 3 tablespoons thick applesauce to 2 tablespoons soft margarine, ¼ cup non-instant skim milk, 1 cup icing sugar, ¼ teaspoon instant coffee (optional). Sprinkle with ground seeds.

Best flavored apples, sliced for dessert: serve topped with homemade yogurt at once to prevent loss of vitamins, top with whole or ground pumpkin seeds, sunflower seeds.

Something which will be new to you unless familiar with Scandinavian, German or Russian foods, is Apple Soup. In Northern European countries, dried fruits of all kinds were, and likely still are, prepared from wild, home grown, and imported sources of fresh fruits to see families healthfully through the long winter months. And fruit soups were just one way of serving the dried fruits until the next season's fresh crops were ripe.

Usually these soups are served cold, though we can use any of them either hot or cold as a dessert.

Apple Soup

4 medium apples
2 Tbsp. fresh lemon juice
a little powdered ginger
2 Tbsp. brown sugar
1½ cups cold water (approx.)
2 cups homemade yogurt

Peel apples if skins are getting tough, and dice. Add lemon juice as you work, to prevent discoloration and loss of vitamins.

Put into saucepan with ginger and sugar (or honey); add enough water to almost cover.

Bring to boil and simmer gently until tender. If any pieces remain, put through a strainer, or mash with spoon. Cool.

A hot Danish Apple Soup is from hot apple sauce, slightly sweetened and with a dash of lemon juice, added to hot white sauce whisked together and served hot. In Norway the white sauce is replaced with cooked oat flakes, which sounds like the makings of a good hot breakfast for a chilly morning here on the coast. A big spoonful of yogurt on top would add the crowning touch of nutrition.

In these apple recipes, remember the use of angelica leaves if you have some dried, or can get some from a local source. Use 1 teaspoon of dried leaf and halve the amount of sugar. If you have used this herb you know how successfully it reduces the acidity of fruits when they are cooked and cuts the quantity of sugar.

A baked Apple Coffee Cake is another delicious way of using winter stored apples. Make this ahead of time and reheat to serve at Sunday breakfast or to take out on a winter car-picnic. These picnics are becoming popular with families who love to get into the woods or by the ocean during winter as much as in summer. Taking part of the food hot in thermos jugs and some of it warmly wrapped, readily disperses the chill in the air. (This seems worth a column to itself soon.)

Apple Coffee Cake

½ cup unbleached flour
1 cup wholewheat flour
¼ cup soy flour
¼ cup wheat germ
2 tsp. brewer's yeast
1½ tsp. baking powder
1-3 cup brown sugar
1-3 cup soft margarine
2 small eggs
2-3 cup skim milk from powder
2 tsp. lemon juice
2 cups small diced apples

Topping:

½ cup chopped sunflower or pumpkin seeds
1 tbsp. brown sugar
few grains ginger

Measure first 7 ingredients into bowl. Cut in soft margarine.

Beat eggs in measuring cup, add milk and mix. Add this liquid all at once to dry ingredients, mixing lightly with fork until combined, but do not beat or mix too much.

Spread this batter in greased 6 by 10-inch baking pan or similar size.

Bake in moderate oven at 177 deg. C. for about 20 minutes.

Remove from oven. Spread diced apples evenly over top; sprinkle with lemon juice at once. Mix topping of seeds, sugar and ginger to sprinkle over top of apples.

Return to oven and bake about 45 minutes at moderate 177 deg. C. until gently browned all over.

Why not make a yeast apple ring? The list of ingredients and the instructions take almost longer to write than to work on. In a warm place between 30 and 35 deg. C. the two rising periods are likely to be less than the one hour each indicated.

Yeast Apple Ring

½ cup warm water
1 tsp sugar
1 Tbsp or 1 pkt dry yeast
½ cup hot skim milk
2 Tbsp margarine
2 Tbsp sugar
1 tsp salt
1 egg
¼ cup wheat germ
1¼ to 1¾ cups unbleached flour

Apple Filling:

1 Tbsp brown sugar
¼ cup raisins, chopped
1½ cups chopped apple

Sprinkle yeast over surface and let stand 10 minutes. Into hot milk add margarine, sugar and salt. Stir until cooling, then add egg and beat a little. This egg-milk mixture will be about same temperature as yeast mix. Stir the yeast mix; add egg-milk and beat well, beating in the wholewheat flour and wheat germ.

Stir in enough unbleachel flour to make the soft dough into a ball. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead for a few minutes until dough becomes smooth and satiny.

Grease the bowl, replace dough, and turn to grease top.

Cover with warm plate, or cloth, and let rise in warm place 30 to 35 deg. C., for about 1 hour until doubled.

Punch down with fist; turn out on lightly floured board. Roll into oblong about 9 by 18 inches. Spread with margarine from "filling" above, sprinkle with sugar, raisins and apples.

Bake in fairly hot oven 190 deg. C. for about 40 minutes until done. Cover with foil if necessary to prevent burning.

This is most delicious when slightly warm.

You will never need to waste an apple again when accustomed to using them in so many different ways in winter.

Ask No Questions ... Hear No Lies

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from the wife of a military man. (She went snooping through his things while he was away and discovered love letters from three different women.)

I have been a naval wife since age 19, and I've never questioned my husband about possible extramarital affairs. In fact I've said, "Don't tell me. I don't want to know."

I'll never know why some women punish themselves by trying to find out things that they know will hurt them.

From where I have sat, women on shore did not behave any better than men on shore leave. I should know. I was 80 last week.

I welcomed my "warrior" home with open arms every time he could get home. There was never a doubt in my mind about where I stood with him. He loved me, and he let me know it.

I cannot understand these holier-than-thou wives. If a woman loves a man, that's that, and if there were other women in his life, what would she gain by knowing?

My warrior died two months ago, and I miss him terribly. I was lucky. He was the one man I loved. And I loved him enough to let him go free. Whatever he did away from me was HIS business.—ADMIRAL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I hereby nominate you the "Matron Saint of the Women's Liberation Movement." (And you'll get a lot of votes from men, too.)

DEAR ABBY: I have three daughters. The two oldest are in their 30's and are respectably married. But the youngest, who is 23, has been shacking up with her boyfriend for nearly a year.

At Christmas time I sent presents to the two oldest ones and their husbands, but I purposely did not send anything to the daughter who is shacking up because I wanted her to know that I disapprove of the way she is living.

I later found out that my husband slipped this shacking-up daughter a cheque for Christmas! This really burned me up.

Do you think my husband had the right to do this behind my back? And didn't I have the right not to give her anything?—A FAMILY DIVIDED

DEAR DIVIDED: Since gift-giving is voluntary, your husband had the "right" to give his daughter a gif (publicly or privately, and you had the right to withhold one.

DEAR ABBY: A woman asked if it was proper to complain to the driver about his reckless driving while she was in the car.

Here's how I handled that situation while riding with my brother, who was going much too fast down a narrow, winding mountain road:

In a very pleasant voice, I said "Brother, I just want you to know that if we have an accident and I get killed while you are driving, I am leaving all my children for you to raise."

At the time I was a widow with 10 minor children whom my brother and his wife loved dearly, but his wife quickly said, "Slow down, dear."—MRS. S.

RHODESIA BOUND along with Capt. and Mrs. Jim Watt, centre and right, is the mound of 30 dozen diapers, 15 nightgowns and seven quilts, all the handiwork of Mrs. Vi Denluck, left. Capt. and Mrs. Watt will be returning to the Salvation Army Howard Hospital where they are medical and teaching missionaries. Mrs. Denluck first raised the money to purchase the more than 300 yards of materials by the sale of hand-knitted novelties. A rapid worker and member of the S.A.'s Home League women's group, she has also, in two months, knitted 45 babies' shirts. (John McKay photo)

WHEELS

By MICHAEL LAMM

Dear Mike: My 1973 Coronet is hard to start when cold — always has been. Dealers can't adjust out the problem although several have tried. The engine is the 400-inch V-8 with 2-barrel carburetor. I'm thinking of changing to a 4-barrel if that will help cure the starting problem. Yet I don't want to sacrifice fuel economy. Which would you recommend for all-around performance and economy — a small Holley or a Rochester Quadrajet? —CHANGING

Dear Changing: Changing carburetors isn't something you do lightly. I don't believe a 4-barrel will help your starting problem any more than a different 2-barrel might. If you must go to a 4-barrel, stick with the stock Dodge setup.

Dear Mike: Your recent statement that coasting downhill "can ruin an automatic transmission" is a mistake. Your confusion probably arises from the fact that present automatics shouldn't be pushed or towed. This is because the trsnsmission pump doesn't move fluid through the transmission nor the cooler without the engine running. But if the engine is running, it's actually beneficial to coast with an automatic. Even so, coasting can be dangerous if the engine dies (and usually you can't hear this at high speed), because power steering will go out and eventually so will power brakes. — CONCERNED READER

Dear Concerned: You're right, and thanks for setting the record straight.

Dear Mike: I own a standard-sized, 6-cylinder American car with 3-speed stick. I won't tell you the make nor model, but I'm very proud to say I've driven this car 320,000 miles. I've ground the valves twice, but the pan has never been off the engine, and rings, rods and mains have never been touched. I'm interested to know how many other cars have given this sort of service. In other words, how unusual is this? — MANY MILES

Dear Many: Fairly unusual, I'd say, but I'd like to hear from other readers who've put similar mileages on their cars.

Key Cases Face Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP) — A string of cases which have generated considerable public interest will confront the nine Supreme Court of Canada judges when the high court opens its winter session Tuesday.

High on the list are the appeals of convicted police killers James Hutchison and Richard Ambrose, the religion-versus-taxes fight between Ottawa and some Alberta Hutterites, and the case of Edmonton doctor Charles A. D. Ringrose who is fighting a one-year professional suspension.

Hutchison, 47, and Ambrose, 26, were convicted early last year of the December, 1974, slayings of two Moncton police officers. They were sentenced to hang on June 13, 1975, but this was stayed until exhaustion of appeals.

If the Supreme Court rejects their pleas, their last hope is the federal cabinet which has commuted all death sentences since 1962.

In the Hutterite case, Ottawa is appealing a Federal Court of Appeal decision overturning a tax appeal board ruling that Hutterites must pay income tax. Hutterites, a religious sect, have large communal farms in the West.

Most Hutterite colonies have signed an understanding with the government, agreeing to file a tax return each year. The rest have refused, saying that their religion prohibits individual earnings or property and that they take no services from governments.

At the centre of this court battle is the Cranford, Alta., colony led by Jacob K. Wipf.

Dr. Ringrose, an obstetrician and gynecologist, was suspended June 13, 1973, pending an investigation into charges of unprofessional conduct stemming from female sterilization procedures.

Dr. Ringrose said he had pioneered development of an office procedure for sterilizing females. The college had not approved the procedure but later dropped that charge and found him guilty of doing surgery in his office.

The tangled legal affairs of industrialist John C. Doyle also are before the court this term. He is seeking the return of $25,800 bail, his passport and some sureties posted in December, 1973, when he was arrested and charged with breach of trust and fraud.

The charges arose from the Canadian Javelin Ltd. scandal that touched the Newfoundland government of Joseph Smallwood several years ago.

Doyle now is believed living in Panama and his lawyers argue that a St. John's magistrate illegally postponed his preliminary hearing by more than eight days. Therefore, they say, the items posted to ensure his appearance at the hearing should be returned.

The judges also will hear 20 to 30 applications to have cases added to the docket.

Three public interest groups are seeking to appeal a Dec. 12, 1975, Federal Court decision that Marshall Crowe, National Energy Board chairman, is not biased toward the need for a northern natural gas pipeline. Also, the Indian Brotherhood of the Northwest Territories is seeking leave appeal in its attempts to file a claim on 400,000 square miles of the Northwest Territories.

SPRING VOTE FOR ITALY?

ROME (AP) — The possibility of a national election in Italy this spring or summer with sizable Communist gains increased today following the refusal of the Republican party to join the Christian Democrats in another minority coalition government.

Premier-designate Aldo Moro, who headed the Christian Democratic-Republican cabinet that resigned 19 days ago, told President Giovanni Leone Sunday night that he has been unable to line up allies to give the Christian Democrats a majority in the Chamber of Deputies.

Moro, 59-year-old leader of four previous cabinets, appeared to have two choices. Either one would probably lead to election of a new government a year ahead of time.

One would be a one-party government of Christian Democrats. Though the party is Italy's largest and has dominated the political scene since the Second World War, it is about 50 seats short of a majority in the lower house, and such a minority government would probably last only a month or two.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union has begun full-scale army and air force manoeuvres along the Soviet border with Turkey and for the first time, Western observers have been invited to attend.

An official announcement said observers from five countries in southeast Europe — Turkey, Greece, Bulgaria, Romania and Yugoslavia — were invited.

The observers were invited for the period Feb. 1-4, which North Atlantic Treaty Organization officials described as the "peak period" of the manoeuvres which began Sunday and involve 25,000 men.

'Let's Make a Deal,' And Kidnapper Did

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Millionaire Dr. A. G. Gaston refused to submit to his kidnapper without a struggle and he refused to be quiet once he was kidnapped.

"Let's make a deal," the 83-year-old black businessman and friend of the late civil rights leader, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., finally told his kidnapper after they had driven aimlessly around Birmingham.

They were on their way back to Gaston's home when police closed in.

A man identified as Charles Lewis Clayborn, 44, of Birmingham, was taken to jail and charged with two counts of assault with intent to commit murder, kidnapping, burglary and robbery.

The drama began early Saturday morning when a man drilled a series of holes through the back door of the Gaston estate on the outskirts of Birmingham.

The man crawled through the door and walked into Gaston's bedroom, Gaston heard a noise, immediately awoke and began wrestling with his attacker.

Mrs. Gaston, who was reading in her bedroom, said she heard the noise and ran to aid her husband.

The three scuffled on the floor for a few minutes. Finally the attacker pulled a hammer out of his sweatshirt and began beating both Gastons on the head.

"I'm not going to kill you," Gaston quoted the kidnapper as saying. "I'm to live with you and turn you over to my contacts."

He said he told the man he would give him anything he wanted provided they headed back to the Gaston home on Lawson Road. He said the man turned the car around ans started heading back.

The Cadillac was half a block from the Gaston home when it was spotted by two policemen.

Cal. MD Crisis Nearing an End

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says a solution to California's growing malpractice insurance crisis, which has touched off a doctors' strike, may be near.

Brown told the striking physicians, faced with an insurance renewal deadline Wednesday, that a proposed bill creating a state-administered physician's liability insurance fund should get positive action in the state legislature.

One doctor at the meeting Sunday, sponsored by the United Physicians of California, agreed with the governor. He suggested the bill "will be the eventual solution to the malpractice problem."

While the measure, written by California Sen. Alfred Song, originated in Brown's office, the governor cautioned the doctors to make sure the solution is the one they want before they grab it.

"I think it's important that we consider all the ramifications of a multi-million state fund that may come back to haunt us," Brown said.

Brown said the fund — created by $4,000-a-year payments from individual doctors — might have to be mandatory for all medical practitioners in order to remain solvent.

Later the governor suggested he is willing to modify his "peace corps" proposal to make doctors spend a set amount of the time serving the poor. Apparently acting on assurances poor residents will not be neglected, Brown indicated he would be willing to make the program voluntary.

"I think you'll find," he said, "that there will be a solution in California that will be a model. We're working as quickly as we can."

But the governor could offer no help to physicians who must decide by Wednesday whether to renew their insurance at premium increases up to 327 per cent.

A survey by the Hospital Council of Southern California showed 113 of its 234 member hospitals are now feeling the effects of the doctors strike which began Jan. 1 and has gained strength through six counties since them.

An estimated 75 per cent of the 4,400 primary care doctors in metropolitan Los Angeles closed their offices for two days last week and many planned to continue their boycott this week in support of the striking surgeons and specialists.

GARDENING hilda beastall

Shop Early for the Best Seeds

Seed packet displays are appearing locally and are now of interest to gardeners who have their lists prepared.

Several advantages are gained by early shopping, not the least important being that you will be able to store the packets of seeds in a cooler place than in the department store rack where you discover them.

Variety names are important when you are selecting both vegetable and flower seeds. Most gardeners know of several varieties in peas, beans, carrots and so on, but when it comes to snapdragons they forget there are literally several hundred named varieties known. All will not be displayed fortunately, but still it is well to remember that a specific height and color can be obtained.

Shallots and potato tubers are among the first vegetables to be bought for planting. It pays to enquire around for what you will be needing.

This method gives you an idea of when these items will be available and what varieties are expected. If you will be wanting strawberry plants of a special variety, celery plants or asparagus plants, find out now who is expecting to have them, the variety names, and when approximately they will be for sale.

Make your notes of dates and names of store, because if you enquire at two places it's easy to forget in two months' time who was getting what, leaving you no further ahead. The end of March is a busy time for growers and retailers, and you are likely to be busier too.

When you begin looking for bedding annual seeds to be sown in greenhouse or porch during February or March, you will be working either for color schemes, flower form or even for a fragrant garden. Each of these projects requires a specialized seed list and it may take two or three weeks of looking around to find most of the kinds wanted.

If possible, get hold of a seed list at the place where you do most of your garden shopping. It will save time. Even in going through two or three racks of seed packets, it is easy enough to miss the one last item you are looking for, but if you are not certain it should be there, you give up too soon.

Slightly unusual flowers like red flax (Linum), the lovely blue Phacelia, the blue Salvias, and the scarlet Lobelia may be difficult to find but are worth the effort of the search. They are not rare or new, nor difficult to grow, but gardeners in general stick to a dozen names and ignore the beauties outside their present acquaintance. This is restricting on a dealer's selection. Asking for what you don't see, often is one way of ultimately being able to have the plant, or the seeds.

For salad greens, remember to look for small headed lettuce called Buttercrunch, and the tender oak-leaved type for hot weather, and the cos lettuce for fall.

For something new to you, perhaps it will be Corn Salad, a distinctive green leafy plant suited for balcony tubs or garden.

And when it comes time to select tomato plants (or the seeds now to sow in mid March indoors) they must be early varieties with medium sized fruits to give ripe tomatoes on the plants during August in normal years here on the coast.

It is not too early to begin selecting seeds, for greatest satisfaction comes from sowing the kinds you have planned on growing, instead of having to take substitutes later in spring.

COBBLE HILL

GARDENERS SPECIAL
Beat high food costs — Grow your own vegetables, bottle your own fruit, collect your eggs from the hen house. The garden is extremely well stocked with a large number of fruit trees of many varieties and also has several varieties of berry fruits. A young asparagus bed will be producing this year, and a lean-to on the south side of the house could be easily converted to a greenhouse. Shrubs surround the six-year-old 2-bedroom home which is well constructed and maintained and extra insulation results in lower heating costs. House and approx. .45 acre of high, well drained land are on community water supply and situated at end of quiet cul-de-sac, yet only a few minutes' walk from shops and school.
Very reasonably priced at $47,000. To view by appointment only contact Tom Burdge, 743-5525 or 743-9398.

Owner has moved from area and must sell 24'x52' mobile home in excellent condition. Presently set up with 4 small bedrooms plus roomy master bedroom with 3-pce. en suite. There is a second large 5-pce. bathroom for the family — a large living room, an eating area and well planned kitchen. Plumbed for washer and dryer. Situated on 50'x80' lot in small quiet trailer park. Owner will look at all offers. For further details contact Tom Burdge. 743-5525 or 743-9398.

Dief Raps Tory Ouster

HALIFAX (CP) — The ouster of Leonard Jones as a member of the Progressive Conservative party and as a candidate for the party's national leadership should be reconsidered, former prime minister John Diefenbaker said today.

"The decision of the Nova Scotia Progressive Conservative party on the weekend to allow Mr. Jones to speak was in keeping with the party's tradition," Diefenbaker told reporters.

"The party may not, in respect of public interest, demand that each member think and speak alike on a matter affecting the country."

Jones was rejected by the party convention committee as a candidate for the national leadership on the ground he does not belong to the party.

Diefenbaker, although dodging direct questions on Conservative leader Robert Stanfield's expulsion of Jones from the party in the 1972 federal election, attributed the decision to elitists and said it was detrimental to the party's future.

Jones was expelled as an official Progressive Conservative candidate in Moncton because of his bilingualism views. He then ran as an independent and defeated the incumbent Conservative candidate.

"In our party the power of the constituency to decide on these matters must be protected and their decision must be final," he said.

Diefenbaker also complained abou the dwindling power of Parliament, the prime minister's "musings" on the free-market system, and the softening attitude in the West toward the widening sphere of Soviet influence.

"I have been criticized for this view before but I believe that the USSR, under detente, is building itself into the strongest military power on earth," he said.

"For a time I believed the USSR had softened its attitude but today it has its fist around the neck of the Western nations."

He said the widening influence of Soviet military power has been developing since 1945 and with its spread into Angola it is now threatening many countries on the African continent.

Douglas to Lay Off Most Employees

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Aircraft Co. of Canada Ltd. plans to lay off 1,000 of its 1,650 employees at the nearby Malton plant, a union official says.

He said no official notice has been given but union leaders have been told privately by the company about the layoffs.

Fewer orders for DC-9 and DC-10 aircraft parts from Douglas's parent plant in Long Beach, Calif., is believed to be the casuse of the staff reduction.

Rising fuel prices and a drop last year in business and profits have led airlines to put off plans to expand their fleets or replace older planes.

The Malton plant built wings for the DC-10 and wings, floors, rear fuselages and tails for the smaller DC-9.

Sheffe said the layoff decision is strictly "what's good for Long Beach. My concern is that the company's going to go belly-up."

He said he called the UAW local in Long Beach Thursday and was told there is no cutback among the 6,900 workers there.

SHANGHAI CRASH KILLS PLANELOAD

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — A Chinese passenger plane enroute from Peking crashed just before landing at Shanghai Airport, killing everyone aboard, the Danish foreign ministry said Friday.

A ministry spokesman said the crash took place Wednesday morning near the outskirts of Shanghai.

"We received the information through our embassy in Peking which had been notified that two Danish businessment on the flight had been killed in the crash," the spokesman said.

He said the number of passengers was not known but that the plane was a "regular passenger plane which usually means quite a lot of people."

Blaze Kills Six

Braves Lose Hoop Final

In preliminary round-robin play at Reynolds, Princess Margaret won the final berth with a 3-0 record while Reynolds was second at 2-1, Prince George third at 1-2 and Burnaby North fourth at 0-3.

Belmont topped the group at Esquimalt with a 3-0 record after edging Kelowna, 65-64. Terrace took second spot with a 68-66 overtime decision over Kelowna to finish at 2-1. Kelowna had a 1-2 record and Esquimalt was last at 0-3.

Don Wightman of Belmont, Al Olson of Terrace, Tom Dawson of Prince George, Joe Hill of North Burnaby and Murray Chalmers of Kelowna were named to the second team.

Meanwhile, Reynolds topped Victoria Tigers 40-38 in the final to win the third annual Roadrunner high school girls' tourney, which was being held concurrently at Reynolds.

Miss Kellar, Tracy McAra and Claire Turner of Reynolds were joined on the all-star team by Shelley Godfrey and Sandy Lewis of Victoria.

Sheila Chalmers and Louise Nowell of Belmont, Leslie Metcalf of Victoria, Lora Donaldson of Pt. Grey and Cheryl Mason of Prince of Wales were named to the second team.

In another high school boys' tournament at Port Alberni, the host school captured top honors by tripping Delbrook Hilltoppers of Vancouver 74-62 in the final Saturday.

Vikettes Ride High While Vikings Skid

University of Victoria Vikettes extended their unbeaten string to 12 games in the Canada West University Athletic Association women's basketball league by tripping host Lethbridge Pronghornettes 75-46 Saturday.

While the Vikettes continued to soar in the women's circuit, the UVic Vikings continued to slide in the men's league, dropping a 77-58 decision to the Pronghorns.

Lorna McHattie, who coach Mike Gallo said played her "best game of the season," led Vikettes with a game-high 24 points and added a good performance on defence

The versatile fifth-year forward proved effective both inside and outside and was connecting with both right-handed and left-handed shots as the Vikettes completed a two-game sweep at Lethbridge.

Vikettes led 31-28 at half time and padded the margin by eight more points before Lethbridge got back on the scoring track in the second half.

Gallo said he went to his bench throughout the game and used a press in the second half to tire out the slower Lethbridge players.

Victory expanded Vikettes' lead to eight points over runner-up Alberta Pandas, who dropped a 59-55 decision to UBC Thunderettes the same night. In the only other women's game, Calgary Dinnies upset Saskatchewan Huskiettes, 61-50.

Guard Richard Foggo led the attack for Pronghorns, who were ahead 39-25 at the half, with 22 points while Lorne Daking topped Viking marksmen with 14 points.

The loss was the fifth straight for UVics and left the Vikings tied with UBC Thunderbirds in second place, eight points behind Calgary.

Injury Won't Keep Brian from Playoffs

SEATTLE— Victoria Scorpions dropped a 102-95 decision to Seattle Ruth Realty during an exhibition senior "A" men's basketball game here Saturday and received a bit of a scare over an injury to Brian MacKenzie, one of the top Victoria players.

Scorpion coach Walt Burrows said Sunday that MacKenzie is expected to practice lightly this week and will be back in the lineup before playoffs in the Dogwood Senior "A" Men's League.

Jets Acquire Odrowski

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota Fighting Saints obtained winger Perry Miller from Winnipeg Jets for defenceman Jerry Odrowski in a World Hockey Association trade Saturday.

Miller, 23, played 45 games with the Jets this season and had seven goals and seven assists. He also plays defence. Odrowski, 37, was obtained by the Saints from Phoenix last summer. This season, he has one goal and 12 assists.

Sawatski Selected

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Carl Sawatski, general managed of the Little Rock-based Arkansas Travelers, was named president Saturday of baseball's Texas League, replacing Bobby Bragan.

Sawatski, 48, was chosen during a meeting of league team owners here. He will take over immediately and the Class AA league's offices will be moved from Fort Worth to Little Rock, Ark. Bragan served six years as president of the league.

Sawatski retired as an active baseball player in 1963. He was a journeyman catcher for Chicago Cubs, Chicago White Sox, Milwaukee Braves, Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals.

Brentwood Tops Trials

Brentwood sliced through the four and one-half mile course in 21 minutes, 11 seconds to beat runner-up University of British Columbia and third-place Shawnigan Lake Boys' School.

Honda Civic has a few characteristics that make it superior to some other cars from November to April.

Honda Civic's front wheel drive can pull you out of skids more securely than an ordinary car pushes you through. And the engine weight over the driving wheels acts like a bag of sand, but without the bag of sand.

Honda Civic's extremely low center of gravity contributes to stability on slick and icky roads. And no Honda Civic leaves the showroom without a high output heater/defroster and a rear window defroster as standard equipment.

Last, and certainly first, the Honda Civic leaves the showroom tuned to kick over in the bitter cold. (Once winter starts, some cars don't like to.)

UNDER THE ROPES goes Ron Lyle after being felled by George Foreman during heavyweight bout Saturday in Las Vegas. Foreman started campaign for another shot at world title by knocking Lyle out in fifth round. It was first knockout suffered by Lyle in 36 professional bouts.

Foreman Is Back as Contender After Stopping Lyle in Fifth

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — George Foreman has blasted his way to a successful boxing comeback with a fifth-round knockout of Ron Lyle that could bring a battle of ex-champions—Foreman against Joe Frazier.

Promoter Don King said after the Saturday bout at Caesars Palace that he envisaged a Foreman-Frazier bout for closed circuit television.

"I plan to stay active and I know I'll get another title shot sooner or later," declared the 27-year-old Foreman who won the crown by knocking out Frazier in two rounds at Jamaica and then lost it in eight to Muhammad Ali in Africa.

Foreman, who now lives in Livermore, Calif., weighed 226 for his comeback — the first fight since losing to Ali 15 months ago. Lyle, 220, of Denver, proved a rugged puncher and put Foreman on the deck twice in the fourth round.

Lyle was also down in that stanza and both of the big guys were wobbly on several occasions.

Foreman finally ended the fight with 2.28 gone in the fifth round. He started Lyle out with a left-right-left-right combination to the head and then pounded the ex-convict from Colorado without mercy in Lyle's own corner.

Foreman said he was more angry than hurt when he went down for the second time in the fight.

"But I said to myself, 'Well, Joe Louis went down and got up and he was a great champion'."

Foreman also got up and went on to win with Louis among the crowd of 4,100 watching in the Sports Pavilion at Caesars.

King, who handles champion Muhammad Ali's fights including his next against Jean-Pierre Coopmans in Puerto Rico, didn't promote the Foreman-Lyle fight.

And he also said the title fight succeeding the Puerto Rico defence would be against Ken Norton. But he did admit that Foreman again has become a serious challenger.

Robert Turley, chairman of the rating committee for the World Boxing Council, announced immediately after Saturday's bout that Foreman was again in the No. 1 challenger's position with Norton dropping to No. 2.

"The only reason we moved Foreman to second was because of the inactivity," Hurley said.

Scheduled for 12 rounds, the Foreman-Lyle bout didn't figure to go that long and turned out to be a slugfest after a slow first round. Actually, Lyle led on two of the three judges' cards after four rounds, but only by a single point and the other judge had the fight even.

The bout also had a short second round. A malfunction in the electronic timing device was blamed and the timekeeper did not switch to the auxiliary clock that was available.

Early Goals by Moen Help Boxers Turn Back Royals

Garnet Moen scored the first two goals of the match to lead London Boxing Club to a 4-2 victory over Cosmopolitan Royals at Heywood Avenue Park in one of five premier division matches played Sunday in the Vancouver Island Soccer League.

In other encounters, Duncan Powels Men's Wear and Gorge United battled to a 1-1 deadlock at Beacon Hill Park, Victoria West blanked Oak Bay 1-0 at Topaz Park, Powell River Villas dropped Nanaimo City 2-1 in Nanaimo and Gorge Molsons defeated UVic Vikings 1-0 at UVic.

Moen scored at the 20-second mark on a cross from Bob Bolitho and then connected for another tally at 22 minutes. George Pakos put Boxers ahead 3-0 at 30 minutes before Doug Dacre capitalized on a goal-mouth scramble to score the first Cosmo goal at 33 minutes.

Kickers dropped Glen Meadows 6-3, Castaways defeated Duncan 6-2, London Boxing Club Maroons nipped Oak Bay "A" 2-1 and London Boxing Club Whites beat Oak Bay "B" 5-1 in third division struggles.

And, in the fourth division, Sooke blanked Prospect Lake 3-0, Castaways edged Duncan 3-2, DaVinci topped Harvey's Sporting Goods 2-1, International Restaurant downed Tsawout 1-0 and Vantreights shut out UVic Alumni, 5-0.

Birds Tie James Bay

University of British Columbia Thunderbirds battled James Bay Athletic Association to a 3-3 deadlock in an exhibition rugby match Saturday at Macdonald Park.

Barry Robbins kicked a penalty goal early in the second half to give James Bay the lead but Preston Wylie connected on another penalty attempt a little later to tie it up for UBC.

In other first-division exhibition tussles, Ex-Brits of Vancouver defeated Oak Bay Wanderers 11-4 at Windsor Park and Castaways downed Vancouver Kats 12-3 at Carnarvon Park.

University of Victoria Vikings and Norsemen split a pair of exhibition encounters with UBC Old-Boy Ravens in Vancouver the same day. Vikings topped Ravens 13-10 in the first division match and Ravens mauled Norsemen 54-0 in the clash of seconds.

Oak Bay defeated Agrarians 13-10 at Windsor Park and Kats nipped Castaways 7-6 in second-division matches Saturday.

Braves Boost Lead to Seven

Saanich Braves moved seven points ahead of idle Esquimalt Legion on Sunday by blanking Juan de Fuca Metro Toyota Gulls 9-0 in a South Island Junior "B" Hockey League game at Juan de Fuca Arena.

Meanwhile, Lake Cowichan Bairds Trucking split a pair of games on home ice at the weekend. The Lake Cowichan club lost 9-5 to Victoria Rays Red Wings on Sunday after recording a 6-4 victory over Fuller Lake Flyers on Saturday night.

Murray McLaren fired three goals to lead Braves while singles were added by Jim Story, Tom Davies, Perry Carrigan, Ron Vause, Brent Patterson and Rob Coldwell. Gord Mitchell wasn't overly-extended while recording the shutout with 13 stops while Bob Evans of Gulls made 30 stops.

Wayne Proceviat, Larry Hanson and Brian Matvenko each scored twice to lead the Victoria attack while singles were chipped in by Dan Alstad, Randy Keller and Jack Voykin. Larry Smith (2), Peter White, Dale Deboldt and Ron Mayea replied for Bairds, who trailed after the first period and 7-4 after the second.

Confident Lauda Wins Grand Prix

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Confident Niki Lauda of Austria took his Ferrari into the lead in the ninth lap of the Brazilian Grand Prix and held it until the final banner Sunday on the curvy 7,960-metre Interlagos course.

The Austrian, who had lost the pole position to Britain's James Hunt during Saturday's final official training session, dominated the first grand prix race of the season.

Runner-up was Frenchman Patrick Depailler in a Tyrrell. He finished the race more than 21 seconds behind the winner. Third was Welsh driver Tom Pryce in a UOP-Shadow, fourth was young West German Hans Stuck in a March, fifth was South Africa's Jody Scheckter in a Tyrrell.

Lauda took the lead after his team-mate, Swiss Clay Regazzoni, broke the wheel of his car. Regazzoni drove one lap with a broken wheel, spent several minutes in the pits to change it, and still managed to come back and finish seventh.

Top Payday for Gorman With Upset for Nastase

Unseeded Tom Gorman of Seattle took less than an hour Sunday to upset top-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania 7-5, 6-3 in the final of the $50,000 Baltimore International indoor tennis competition.

Gorman broke Nastase's service once in each set and took advantage of his own blazing serves to win $12,000.

Nastase, who won the first Baltimore International in 1972, won $6,500.

"It is the most I have ever won in a tournament," said Gorman.

The Romanian was hampered throughout the match at the Baltimore County campus of the University of Maryland by racquet trouble. He broke the frame of one and snapped strings in another during the first set.

Nastase's behavior in the match was much better than it had been Saturday night when he shouted ethnic slurs at the crowd during his match with Harold Solomon.

The only significant delays occurred when he changed racquets and when one of his serves bounced out of the court and hit Candace Hewitt, the three-year-old daughter of South African player Bob Hewitt. The girl was unharmed.

At Birmingham, Ala., top-seeded Jimmy Connors dominated the final set to take a 6-4, 3-6, 6-1 singles victory Sunday over fellow-American Roscoe Tanner to win the crown in the Birmingham International indoor tournament.

It was Connors' third straight singles championship in the three-year-old tournament. For the victory, Connors received $10,000. Tanner picked up $2,000 for his second-place finish.

CHRIS EVERT

CHRIS WADES PAST RIVAL

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Top-seeded Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., easily defeated No. 2-seeded Virginia Wade of Great Britain, 6-2, 6-1, in the finals of a $75,000 professional women's tennis tournament Sunday.

"I thought that this was one of the best matches I've ever played," Miss Evert said after the match.

She so dominated play that she was putting away winning shots off Miss Wade's first serve, and took only 50 minutes to win the match.

Austrian Ace Sizzles

KITZBUEHEL, Austria (AP) — Austria's Franz Klammer won the Hahnenkamm World Cup men's downhill race Sunday with an overwhelming two-second margin over suprise runner-up Erik Haker of Norway.

The victory, Klammer's fourth World Cup downhill triumph in seven races this season, establishes the Austrian ace as the favorite for the Olympic downhill at Innsbruck, Austria.

Clocking a near-record two minutes 3.79 seconds on the 3,510-metre track, Klammer blazed ahead of the early leaders from the 15th starting position. Haker was timed in 2:05.85 on the fearsome course.

Jim Hunter of Calgary place seventh in 2:06.75 and Dave Murray of Abbotsford, B.C., was eighth in 2:06.77 while Calgary's Ken Read, winner of the season's first downhill at Val d'Isere, France, tied for 11th place with Austria's Ernst Winkler with a time of 2:07.25.

"He's simply in great form," Haker said of Klammer's victory margin which moved him into second place in World Cup standings with 156 points, 10 behind Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark who won the special slalom here Saturday.

"Today's victory was calming for me but also dangerous," he said, adding he was determined not to let up before the Olympic Games.

Austria placed four skiers in the top 10 Sunday, with Josef Walcher third, Werner Grissmann fourth and Klaus Eberhard sixth.

Bernhard Russi, downhill gold medallist at the 1972 Sapporo Olympics, was fifth in 2:06.63, leading two other skiers from Switzerland into the top 10.

Walter Tresch of Switzerland, tying team-mate Phillippe Roux for ninth place, won the Hanenkamm combined title, worth 25 World Cup points and soared to fifth in the standings with a total of 90 points. Hunter, with a 30th-place finish Saturday, was second in the combined and earned 25 World Cup points here on the weekend, moving him into 11th place over-all with 57.

Italian slalom specialist Piero Gros, who did not race Sunday, stayed third over-all with 155 points, and World Cup defender, Gustavo Thoeni of Italy, a distant 36th in the downhill, remained alone in fourth with 40 points.

Theoni, trying for this fifth straight World Cup title, finished third in the combined, earning 15 more Cup points.

Winner Myers, with Blackie

A Lonely Life Despite Win . . .

Times News Services

VANCOUVER — What does a man do when he hears he has won $200,000 in the Olympic Lottery?

If he is widower Frank Myers, 66, of Surrey, he simply goes to his fridge and opens a bottle of beer. Nothing more.

Myers said he hasn't had any time to think about what he'll do with his winnings, but that "it looks like that at the age of 66 now, I'm going to have to become a brand new swinger . . . develop a new set of bad habits, I guess."

The win came 2½ years too late.

"That was when my wife died and she really loved beautiful things," he said. "I would have given an arm and a leg to have won this prize for her."

Myers was born in Winnipeg but has lived in B.C. since 1940. He was a machinist in the aircraft industry and later a carpenter in heavy construction.

"The only real pleasure I now get out of life is taking my dog Blackie for a long country walk and that doesn't cost any money," said Myers.

In the seventh draw, the holders of ticket number

'GENERAL STRIKE' DEMANDED

3,000 Jeer ICBC Jumps

Times News Services

More than 3,000 jeering people, shouting "Sieg Heil" and "general strike," staged a two-hour protest rally Sunday in Surrey and vowed they would not pay enormous Autoplan premium increases.

More protest rallies, including a possible one Sunday in Vancouver's 16,000-seat Pacific Coliseum, are expected.

But Pat McGeer, the minister in charge of the government-run Insurance Corp. of British Columbia, stood his ground Sunday by saying the Social Credit cabinet will not reconsider the new rates which will raise payments by as much as 200 per cent for B.C. motorists.

McGeer said that motorists should realize that while the rates have been increased considerably, the installment payment plan (which charges 13 per cent interest) means only one-quarter of the premium is due Feb. 29, "and that's less than what people had to pay last year.

"ICBC has been divorced from reality and we have to get back to that reality," McGeer said. "The public just has to realize this.

"The NDP pigeons have finally come home to roost," he added, referring to the lower rates that were in effect when the previous New Democratic Party government introduced ICBC two years ago.

Premier Bennett said today he was "also surprised" by the high premiums but the decision is final and the government will not reconsider.

"I don't blame people for being upset at the cost of auto insurance," he said, adding that last year there was "a politically suppressed rate" established by the NDP.

But he stressed that people are not paying for past losses in this year's rates — only the costs of keeping ICBC at a break-even point.

Not only has the government decided to pay off the $181 million deficit left by ICBC's first two years of operation, said Bennett, but that money will not be needed right away and ICBC can invest it "and earn millions of dollars."

"This will help them to have lower premiums because the interest from this money will help to cut the cost of this year's insurance," he said.

But meanwhile the $181 million is coming out of an "already depleted treasury . . . at a time that this province is headed for the first major deficit and borrowing in years," said Bennett.

The government cannot reconsider premium increases because there is simply no money available, he said, to subsidize the cost.

"There's no sense in fooling ourselves any longer. There's

Socred Auditor Changed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ian Adam, a Social Credit party official, has been replaced as the Clarkson Gordon and Co. partner heading a review of British Columbia government finances.

Bonar Lund, a senior official here of the national accounting firm, said Sunday that Donald Scott, a senior partner of Clarkson Gordon in Toronto, will head the Victoria audit.

Controversy followed the appointment of Adam because he is fourth vice-president of the Vancouver-Point Grey Social Credit constituency association. Attorney-General Garde Gardom and Education Minister Pat McGeer represent the riding.

Lund said the move is no reflection on the integrity or efficiency of Adam who also has done personal financial work for the premier.

Premier Bennett said he has never spoken to Lund and as far as he is concerned the report will still be coming from Clarkson Gordon.

Asked if he was glad Adam had been removed from the task Bennett said, because of the doubts raised, it is important the report "have credibility in the public mind."

Fingers Crossed

CAMBODIAN REFUGEES MASSACRED

BANGKOK (AP) — Officials say Cambodian soldiers today killed more than 200 villagers who tried to flee to Thailand. Their information came from a survivor, 28-year-old Tue Piey, who escaped across the border with 11 companions, they added.

The officials said Cambodians have been escaping to Thailand at a rate of about seven to 10 a day.

Thai officials said similar incidents of fleeing refugees being killed have been reported by survivors in the last nine months.

Beirut Truce Holding

BEIRUT — Thousands of Lebanese celebrated the return of peace to Beirut today under the watchful eyes of Palestinian patrols, but occasional gunfire was heard along the dividing line between the city's Christian and Moslem sectors.

The state radio said both sides were generally observing the Syrian-sponsored ceasefire, which went into effect four days ago.

Truckloads of Palestine Liberation Army troops rode through the streets of Moslem-controlled western Beirut Sunday looking for looters.

Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat has warned that gunmen in the streets will be shot without warning.

The loudspeakers also announced that Arafat's guerrillas would protect Christian villages in Moslem regions.

Gunmen moved out their barricades in city and suburban areas, but militia forces were still in control of the streets around the devastated seafront hotel area.

The architect of the current truce, Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, met with Christian militia leaders Sunday and won their approval of a 48-hour timetable for demilitarizing the capital and countryside.

★ SPORTS ★

Kansas City Scouts, who lost their 12th straight National Hockey League game Sunday, are expected to get a new coach today. Rumors suggest it will be Eddie Bush, a veteran coach in Ontario junior hockey ranks. Page 14.

Ben Crenshaw, who made a brilliant debut by winning his first professional golf event almost three years ago, bounced back into the limelight Sunday by taking the Bing Crosby tournament as Jack Nicklaus floundered like a duffer in the final round. Page 14.

Victoria Cougars continue to have barrels of trouble in Western Hockey League clashes with Kamloops Chiefs. After drubbing Calgary on home ice Saturday, the Cougars moved to Kamloops Sunday and were thumped 7-3. Page 14.

Bob Gallaugher of Victoria and Craig MacRae of Nanaimo have captured the Vancouver Island berths in the Pacific Coast Curling Association playoffs in Victoria next month. Representing the Vancouver zone will be Bernie Sparkes and Vic Wood. Page 15.

University of Victoria Vikettes have stretched their victory streak to 12 games in the women's basketball league of the Canada West Universities Athletic Association by sweeping a two-game series against Lethbridge. Not so fortunate are the UVic Vikings, who have suffered five straight defeats in the men's league. Page 34.

Soviets Continue Southward Push

Times News Services

Soviet-backed forces are continuing their southward push in Angola with pressure increasing on the town of Novo Redondo, a spokesman for the pro-Western National Union for the Total Independence of Angola said Sunday.

All civilians have been cleared from the town and UNITA forces are attempting a defence from surrounding areas. Fall of the town would open the way for an all-out attack on Lobito, Angola's largest port.

Meanwhile, westerners arriving in Zambia from Angola said today that leaders of UNITA told them that South African forces have completed their withdrawal.

The travellers said UNITA leader Jonas Savimbi told them that the last South African troops were flown south Friday, two days after their government ordered them to withdraw.

The entry of an estimated 2,000 South African troops into the war several months ago bolstered UNITA's fight against the MPLA and Cuban soldiers fighting alongside it.

But the South African intervention resulted in support for the MPLA by a number of African governments, and the Cuban contingent was increased to an estimated 10,000 troops.

A dispatch in the Rand Daily Mail today claimed that Pretoria had demanded recognition by 22 African nations as the price for continuing to support the pro-western Angolan faction.

"This was too high a price," the Mail quoted Jorge Sangumba a UNITA spokesman as saying.

In a related development, a British correspondent reported from the MPLA capital today that the Soviet-backed faction is making "discreet" overtures to the United States.

Nicholas Ashford of The Times of London reported from Luanda that the MPLA's desire to improve relations with the U.S. was shown by the treatment given Mark Moran, an adviser to Senator John Tunney, who met almost every MPLA civil and military leader except President Agostinho Neto during a visit last week to Luanda.

Ashford said Moran told him he got "the distinct impression that the MPLA would like to have better relations with the U.S.—and the MPLA is not demanding U.S. recognition as a price."

OVERHAUL EYED FOR AUTO PACT

WASHINGTON — A major new study critical of the Canada-U.S. auto trade agreement is expected to lead to renewed appeals in Congress for an overhaul of the 11-year-old treaty.

The auto pact is not a "free trade agreement" and its economic benefits have been lopsided in Canada's favor, says a still-unpublished report of the U.S. International Trade Commission.

The report, which is expected to be released publically this Wednesday after it is circulated to members of the Senate Finance committee, say the pact "has had the effect of preserving the protection" the Canadian motor-vehilce industry enjoyed before the agreement was signed.

The ITC study also states "the conclusion is inevitable that there would have been a greater increase in United States automotive production and employment," during the past decade if it were not for imports from Canada.

Fourth BCR Union Agrees to Prober

Canadian Press

A fourth union representing employees of British Columbia Rail has agreed to submit its case before the industrial inquiry commissioner appointed by the provincial government.

Transportation-communication division of the brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks said Sunday it would put its case before the commissioner, Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Mr. Justice Munroe was appointed Friday by Labor Minister Allan Williams.

Teamsters' local 31 — about 275 truck drivers, warehousemen and office employees — walked out Wednesday, closing down the operation of the crown corporation. It is unlikely they will end the strike until all five unions agreed to meet with the commissioner.

The International Union of Operating Engineers and the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees had earlier joined the teamsters in agreeing to a commissioner.

The fifth union — the United Transportation Union — still has reservations about taking its case to Mr. Justice Munroe, a union spokesman said on the weekend.

Mexicans Coming

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and Mexican President Luis Echeverria announced Sunday, after two days of talks, that a group of Mexican government ministers will visit Canada within a few days to study the possibility of using a Candu reactor in Mexican nuclear development.

Worker Slain by Robber

VANCOUVER (CP) — As Richard Wilander was forced to open the safe at a Burnaby building supply company Sunday a gunman fired a single shot in the back of his co-employee, killing him.

Police said the victim, whose name was not released, had done nothing to provoke the robber who escaped with an undetermined amount of money from Lumberland Building Supplies, 5650 Lougheed.

Burnaby Staff-Sgt. Paul Starek said the robber, aged between 20 and 26, accosted the two employees as they were leaving the store for the day.

They were ordered into the back of the store to open the safe.

Wilander later was forced to lie down on the floor and tied with tape the robber had brought with him.

Starek said that after the safe was opened the victim, about 30, lay on the floor and the bandit pumped a single shot into his back from about seven feet.

Police said it took Wilander several minutes to free himself and call for help. By that time, the other man had died.

Police said they don't know if there is any connection between Sunday's murder and a holdup on Sunday, Nov. 17, at the same store, when a gunman collected several thousand dollars in cash, cheques and lottery tickets.

Starek said police don't know whether the robber had an accomplice or the model of his getaway car.

Police asked persons who were in the store about the time of the 5:40 p.m. shooting to contact them at 294-7649.

Wilander was in seclusion late Sunday with other Lumberland employees, his parents said.

Jubilee Doctor Has a Heart of Plastic

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

With pipes and tubes and blocks of plastic, it doesn't look a bit like a real heart. But with glycerine and water for blood, it works just like one in the search for a better valve.

The curious apparatus in a laboratory at Royal Jubilee Hospital is the creation of Dr. Richard Brownlee and research assistant Larry Scotten.

It duplicates exactly the pessures and flows found in the heart but it's just a testing chamber for one part of the heart which sometimes goes awry and has to be replaced — the mitral valve.

There are artificial mitral valves now which work well but could work even better. For five years now Brownlee, who is a heart surgeon and director of the hospital's open heart surgery unit, has been taking a new approach in trying to build a more refined valve.

The mitral valve sits between atrium and ventricle, two chambers on the left side of the heart. It's a skirt-like structure, a sort of truncated cone of thin but tough tissue which Brownlee describes as a marvelous piece of engineering when it's working right.

But about a quarter of open heart surgery cases locally are for replacement of heart valves. The mitral valve can be damaged by such conditions as rheumatic fever.

Brownlee believes that the major advances in heart surgery in the next few years will be in refinement of techniques now being used. In trying to design a better mitral valve he is counting on the normal function of the rest of the heart, the blood flow patterns made by the heart pump itself, to open and close his artificial valve.

What material the valve should be made from is a problem to consider later. Meanwhile Brownlee and Scotten are employing a movie camera which takes 1,600 frames a second to study how the artificial valve works in action.

Pointed into the plastic heart with its glycerine blood, the high speed camera records a heart beat taking six-tenths of a second and stretches it into a move 3½ minutes long so every action can be studied in detail.

Setting up the test bed, the artificial heart, has taken most of the time spent on the research so far, Brownlee says. Work on the valve design has only moved into high gear in the past year.

Already he has spotted changes he wants to make in the design he is working with and there will be more which the heart and camera will uncover for him.

The research project is one of 23 being supported by the B.C. Heart Foundation, which will hold its annual drive for funds next month. The foundation has contributed about $35,000 to his work in the past and Brownlee is asking for $5,000 this year to buy a photo readout of pressure tracings, a more accurate technique than is now being used.

Provincial goal of the heart foundation this year is $975,000, with the target on Vancouver Island being $125,000.

Campaign officials ask that anyone who can devote one hour to canvassing next month, please phone 382-3933.

'FIRST FATAL' IS WOMAN, 25

Victoria police asked today for any witnesses to a fatal accident at Cook and Lang at 11:55 p.m. Saturday to contact the traffic department.

Twenty-five-year-old Shirley Chilibeck of 1410 Fort died in Royal Jubilee at 2:30 a.m. Sunday of injuries she received when her 10-speed bicycle was in collision with a car driven by Eric Abraham, 20, of 3150 Jutland.

She is the first person to die in a motor vehicle accident in Victoria city this year.

$7,000 Accepted By Discharged Scout

An out of court settlement of $7,000 has been accepted by former Victoria region Boy Scouts executive director Jack Scrivener, who was discharged in the fall of 1974.

Scrivener, now of Vancouver, alleged he was dismissed wrongfully from the post he held for seven years, and launched a suit that was to be heard starting today in B.C. Supreme Court.

Counsel for the claimant, Clifford Watt, said the settlement represents a compromise of the claim for damages that was scheduled for a full week's trial.

Donald Farquhar, representing the Boy Scouts of Canada, said the amount stood for settlement of a disputed claim, recognizing Scrivener's service. The settlement did not acknowledge wrongful dismissal, he said.

Scrivener's counsel said the claimant's job had been rearranged and Scrivener was to have been based in Vancouver under terms which he claimed were not adhered to.

When he refused to accept the job under those conditions, he was discharged.

INSECTS FOR SNACKS 'MATTER OF TIME'

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

The curator of the largest forest insectarium in western Canada thinks its only a matter of time when it will become fashionable for Canadians to eat some insects as a hors d'oeuvre or an after-dinner sweet.

Entomologist Dave Evans of the Pacific Forest Research Centre on Burnside Road, sees nothing distasteful about eating insects, especially the chocolate-coated ones.

Insects such as locusts, bees, grubs are eaten in other parts of the world and found quite palatable," he said. "The reason they are not eaten here is purely psychological."

"Yes, they will eventually become acceptable as food in the western world," he added.

Since 1949 Evans has built up a collection of insects which has become of immense scientific value. It includes 60,000 specimens, representing 5,000 species.

Most of the insects are defoliators and bark borers — the former evolving from the larvae stage into moths and the latter into beetles.

Then there are the flies which are mostly scavengers feeding on decayed material, and the predators who prey on other insects and help control the population of certain species.

Evans thinks the reason why so many people are repelled by insects is because they have little or no knowledge about them.

While some insects are pests and have to be controlled because they destroy trees and crops, they also do a lot of good, such as pollination, he said.

"If we were to wipe out all insects, we would go too," he said. "Even exterminating one pest, would not be to our advantage because we don't know the effect it would have on the chain of life."

He observed that some insects are extremely attractive but many of the beauties can't be appreciated with the naked eye because they are too minute. They have to be seen through a microscope or glass.

Evans and technician, Mrs. Erika Pass are kept busy during the summer months identifying and cataloguing thousands of insects for the forest industry. They also rear them for research work.

"It is most important for our work," he said. Every summer forest rangers make a survey of forest insects and send thousands to the insectarium for identification, he explained.

He said this enabled entomologist to determine the population increases of certain species and if they are a threat to trees.

"We can also keep track of new insects which have been introduced into this country by some means," he said. "They are identified in the insectarium."

Paperboy's Act 'Saves Building'

About $10,000 damage was done in a fire in a house at 474 Torquay early Sunday but it could have been worse if it hadn't been for quick-thinking actions of a Colonist paperboy.

Saanich fire chief Harold Gains said John Anderson, 15, of 4490 Majestic was out delivering his morning route when he spotted smoke and flame in the basement of the house.

The youth apparently tried to rouse the occupants but getting no answer went to the home of a neighbor who called the fire department.

Gains commended the youth and said that because of his actions firemen were able to save the building from total destruction.

The chief said the fire was confined to the basement although there was smoke damage throughout the single-storey dwelling.

Gains and said fire officials will try to determine the cause of the blaze today. He noted the fire appeared to have centred in a portable bar under a stairwell in the unfinished basement.

Time Out To Search For Bombs

Victoria police said they received a call at 5:45 p.m. that there was a bomb planted in the arena and would go off in 15 minutes. The caller was described as a young male.

A group of youths playing hockey were asked to leave the ice but returned to finish their game after the search was completed and the deadline for the bomb to go off had passed.

Mayor Ready For Questions

Victoria residents who want to be informed on city council's policies, problems and priorities will have an opportunity to question Mayor Mike Young in the Cable 10 Tuesday at Nine program this week.

100 Guns Stolen

As many as 100 handguns may have been taken in a spectacular break-in at Robinson Sporting Goods, 1307 Broad, overnight.

Store owner Doug Robinson said today he "hadn't a clue" as to the extent of the loss as he was still making an inventory check.

"All I know is they got plenty."

He said a cabinet containing handguns kept in a back storeroom was emptied and some ammunition taken. No rifles or other weaponry appeared to be missing.

"Whoever it was knew where to go," he said calling the theft a "serious loss."

Robinson said the thieves entered the store by smashing in some stairs above the backroom and dropping 10 feet to the floor. The stairs are used as a fire escape for businesses on the second floor.

He presumed the thieves must have come over the roof, broke in upstairs and then worked their way down.

He believed they used a sledge hammer to bash in the stairs.

"One guy couldn't have done this alone," he said. "And whoever came through the hole in the stairwell was taking a chance at it's quite a drop to the floor."

When he arrived to work at 9 a.m. today he found a ladder leading up to the hole.

He said he was in the store until 5 p.m. Sunday and a billiard hall located above the store was open to 11 p.m. The break-in, he reasoned, must have taken place sometime later.

'Brutal Beating' Followed By 'Keep Quiet' Gunshot

Two men and a woman in their twenties are being sought by Colwood RCMP in connection with the brutal beating of a 33-year-old man in his Christie Point apartment early Sunday.

Police said the three unidentified suspects went to Perry's residence at about 3:30 a.m., rang the door bell and when Perry appeared, clad in night attire, they knocked him to the floor and punched and kicked him in the head.

Police said one of the men was armed with what is believed to have been a sawed-off shotgun and after the assault fired a blast through a living-room window as a warning to Perry to keep silent about the incident.

A police spokesman said Perry's wife, Sharon, asleep in a bedroom, was awakened by the commotion, came out to investigate but was told to return and close the door. The couple's two children were asleep in another bedroom.

One resident, living four doors away from Perry's suite said he was jarred from his slumber after hearing "a loud bang."

Police said the description they have of the three assailants is vague and incomplete but reports would indicate two men and a woman were involved. Police do not believe the woman took part in the assault but had apparently "just gone along for the ride."

Neither Mrs. Perry nor her two children were hurt.

'GANGLAND STYLE MURDER' REMAND

David John Ross, 32, was remanded in custody to Wednesday when he appeared in Victoria Provincial Court today charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment.

Court prosecutor Scott Marshall estimated there would be 14 to 18 witnesses, up to eight of them from across the prairie provinces, during preliminary hearing to be scheduled Wednesday for a later date.

Ross was arrested last Wednesday in Winnipeg in connection with the shooting of Malcolm Preston Cunningham, 27, whose body was found in the bushes near the CPR tracks in the Sooke area Dec. 22, 1975.

Police described the killing as a drug-related "gangland-style" murder.
